EVANS OFFERS VIEWS . . .

Nixon Displays 'Schizophrenia'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

President Nixon has displayed during his first nine months in office a "political schizophrenia" which could prove dangerous to his own future, national columnist Rowland Evans said Tuesday.

This "split personality" has emerged over such issues as inflation, tax reform, continuation of the surtax, antitrust action and school desegregation, Evans told a University of Nebraska student audience.

Nixon is also "offering the lowest possible silhouette" for critics, Evans said. "He has done very little by design."

'Calvin Reminder'

The result, he suggested, is "a disappearing (presidential) profile" which reminds some observers of the days of Calvin Coolidge.

Evans defended Nixon's position on Vietnam — which essentially amounts to "buying time" in an effort to convince Hanoi that Americans have the endurance to force a negotiated settlement of the war — but suggested that the withdrawal of U.S. troops is not proceeding fast enough to maintain public support at home for long.

"It would be a rare and awful tragedy if two Presidents are destroyed by an inability to solve the same problem," Evans said. "But that is very possible."

Joint Column

Evans, together with Robert Novak, authors a column syndicated in more than 200 newspapers.

The administration's delay in school desegregation suggests to some people that Nixon is pursuing a political policy of attempting to unite the 1968 Nixon and Wallace voters into a new Republican majority, Evans said.

The result could be a purposeful effort to "turn the clock back on civil rights" and, as Barry Goldwater once suggested, politically cut off the East Coast and let it flow out to sea, Evans said.

Mitchell A Power

Attorney General John Mitchell, who apparently has prevailed on school desegregation policy, is the most powerful figure in Washington outside of Nixon himself, Evans noted.

In foreign policy, Nixon seems to be "backing off" from what appeared to be a pledge early in his administration to adopt a more "even-handed" policy in the Mideast, Evans told students.

The U.S. has become "totally identified with Israel" in Mideast problems, he said, "and that is a mistake."

Sales Taxes To Begin On Golf, Bowling

Nebraskans will begin paying sales taxes Wednesday on recreation such as golf, bowling and billiards.

A bill approved by the 1969 Legislature expands the definition of admissions in the sales tax law to include those activities. It takes effect Oct. 1.

Golfers, bowlers and pool players will pay and extra 2% tax when they pay admission fees. That rate will rise to at least 2½% next year when an increased sales tax rate takes effect.

Pieces Of Plane Found On Farms South Of Grafton

Several pieces of what appeared to be a cover from an aircraft engine were found on two farms south of Grafton Tuesday, according to the Fillmore County sheriff's office.

A search for other pieces, however, failed to turn up any evidence that a plane had crashed, the sheriff's office said.

Sheriff's deputies were joined in the search by a Nebraska Air National Guard helicopter.

No planes were reported missing, the sheriff's office said, and it was assumed the cover had blown off a passing craft.

Grafton is about 25 miles southwest of York on U.S. 6.

PROBE SAID HUSHED UP

BEARD . . . says thousands of dollars stolen.

NCO Group's Rakeoff High

. . . Slot Machines Rigged

Washington (AP) — A Senate witness accused the Army Tuesday of muzzling a probe into the rigging of slot machines at U.S. servicemen's clubs because of fear the facts might implicate its top NCO and embarrass a former chief of staff.

Irvin E. Beard, a former Army criminal investigator, testified under oath that his inquiries led him to believe former Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge was a leader of a clique of sergeants he said skimmed up to $350,000 a year from slot machine profits at clubs of the 24th Infantry Division at Augsburg, Germany.

General To Be Invited

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said he would send copies of Beard's testimony to Gen. Harold Johnson, former Army chief of staff, and invite him to testify.

Ribicoff is presiding at hearings of a Senate investigations subcommittee which for eight months has probed allegations that some sergeants who managed the more than 2,000 Army recreation clubs around the world conspired to loot them.

Johnson was chief of staff in 1966 when Wooldridge was elevated from his position as division sergeant major at Augsburg and brought to Washington to be the Army's top enlisted man.

Testimony 'Speculation'

David Thomas, attorney for Wooldridge and two other sergeants, told reporters after the hearing he may advise his clients to invoke the 5th Amendment "if they are asked questions which may tend to incriminate them." He characterized Beard's testimony as "opinion, speculation, conjecture, and very definitely unfair."

Beard testified that Army investigators found many slot machines had been equipped with a jumper, a device used to prevent them from paying jackpots.

Beard said the Army required gambling devices to return a profit from 60 to 70%. He said his check over a four-year period showed an average profit of only 52%.

$300,000 To $350,000

"My statistical analysis convinced me that the custodians, managers, and other personnel connected with the club system of the 24th Division were stealing between $300,000 and $350,000 annually from the slot machines in the Augsburg-Munich area alone, and that the theft had been going on for an extended time," Beard said.

Beard added that evidence sufficient to bring criminal convictions had been lacking.

But he said he became convinced that the sergeants "were engaged in a criminal conspiracy which involved systematic larceny of nonappropriated funds, property and services for their own benefit and enrichment."

He labeled Wooldridge "a leader in the criminal organization."

Swept Under Rug

And he said the results of his investigation were swept under an official rug by an order which closed the case with a single, locally filed police report. He said normal procedure would have required a full report to officials in the United States.

He said the decision to stop the investigation was made at a meeting of military police officers in Frankfurt in May 1967.

"I agreed with the decision, partly because of my frustration and partly because I doubted that punitive measures would ever be taken," Beard testified.

Embarrassment Factor

"I believe that the principal consideration of those who attended the meeting was that further investigation by me or other personnel would embarrass Gen. Harold Johnson, chief of staff of the Army, who had appointed Sgt. Maj. Wooldridge as the first sergeant major of the Army in July 1966."

Wooldridge, once retired, was recently recalled to active duty and is now sergeant major at White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. The Army has stripped him of the Distinguished Service Medal, a decoration awarded at the conclusion of his tour as top ranking NCO.

Beard, also retired from the Army, is now an investigator for the Pennsylvania Bureau of Investigation.

Developer Fears Big Platte Dam Will Create Huge Pollywog Swamp

Omaha (AP) — The proposed $500 million Platte River Dam between Omaha and Lincoln will create "the worst pollywog swamp you ever saw when the water goes down," Gentry Davis, a developer in the area, told the Douglas County Board Tuesday.

At the same hearing, an Omaha labor leader said the dam will provide necessary recreation by the year 2000.

The county board has withheld support of the controversial dam proposal until after a public hearing in November, a date for which hasn't been set.

"In due respect to the people who are going to get hurt, (the dam) is going to be a necessity," said Victor Meyers, state AFL-CIO director.

Opponents of the dam said that it won't help control floods, will cost three times the $500 million estimated and will flood valuable property.

"There never has been a flood in this area with damage of more than a half-million dollars," said Ralph Wilson, former Waterloo mayor and now president of the Elkhorn-Platte Valley Preservation Association.

Wilson criticized the Army Corps of Engineers. He said the corps is basing its plan on a study of the entire valley which took only two weeks.

The charge that a "pollywog swamp" will be created was made when Davis said reservoir engineers have told him the lake will be at high water about two months of the year and about 17 feet below that the rest of the time.

He said the Platte Valley has an average slope of 17 feet in a mile.

Wilson said: "We feel the cost of this dam will grow to be $1.5 billion before it is through . . . and it will wipe out farms producing more grain per acre than in any other area in Nebraska."

Another member of the preservation association, John Lightcap, Valley, charged that the Army Corps of Engineers has never made public a second plan which he said calls for a series of small dams on the Platte and Elkhorn rivers instead of the big dam.

10 Senators Propose Shaving Oil Tax Break Even More

Washington (UPI) — Ten senators, contending that major oil companies escape taxes despite "fantastic" profits, proposed Tuesday that the Senate go even further than the House in trimming the oil depletion allowance.

The amendment they offered to the House-passed tax reform bill was expected to be the basis for a vigorous fight on the Senate floor this fall on trimming the allowance, the most visible target of tax reformers.

Testifying in behalf of nine other sponsors of the amendment, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., told the Senate Finance Committee that depletion is a $1.3 billion-a-year tax loophole. Most committee members are believed opposed to the House cut in the allowance from 27.5% to 20%.

Under the amendment Proxmire offered, oil companies would be permitted to take the full 27.5% on their first $5 million of oil and gas income, 21% on the second $5 million and 15% on everything over $10 million.

Proxmire said this would give the tax advantage to wildcatters, giving them incentive for exploration, while requiring "the major oil companies that have been enjoying fantastic profits to pay their fair share of the tax burden."

Sponsoring the amendment with him were Republican Edward W. Brooke, Mass., and Democrats Edward M. Kennedy, Mass., George McGovern, S.D., Edmund S. Muskie, Maine, Thomas J. McIntyre, N.H., Walter F. Mondale, Minn., Gaylord Nelson, Wis., Claiborne Pell, R.I., and Stephen M. Young, Ohio.

"Any tax system which requires 2.2 million people under the poverty level to pay federal income taxes, yet allows Atlantic Richfield to earn over $465 million between 1964 and 1967 without paying one red cent in federal income taxes clearly requires revision," Proxmire testified.

"Imagine, gigantic Atlantic Richfield paid less in federal income taxes than the janitor who cleaned this room last night!"

Tiemann Says Voluntary Cutbacks Sought Before Guidelines Firmed

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann said Tuesday the Nixon Administration is asking the states to submit voluntary plans for construction cut backs before further federal guidelines are developed for the anti-inflation battle.

Tiemann participated in a "task force" meeting of governors and presidential advisors Monday evening in Chicago regarding the 75% cutback in fully federal-funded projects.

Tiemann said Vice President Spiro Agnew, who attended the meeting, requested each state to submit a plan of different projects than could be deferred and "for whatever time they are deferrable."

After this is compiled regarding "its impact on the economy," Tiemann said, the vice president said "further federal guidelines would be developed — and fairly soon."

President Nixon has ordered a 75% cutback in federal construction, and has hinted curbs may be extended to state-federal projects unless the state mutually cooperate in the anti-inflation fight.

"No deadlines or percentage limitations were given to the state for submitting their construction plans," Tiemann said.

He said 49 of the 50 governors have "indicated a willingness" to cooperate with President Nixon's request. The exception was identified as Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia.

Tiemann said the presidential "task force" is hopeful the leadership of the states in cutting back on public works will extend into the "private sector."

Tiemann said he will personally consult with "state agencies and private industry" regarding what construction can be deferred in Nebraska.

Avoid Road Cuts

Still hopeful federal cutbacks in highway construction can be avoided in Nebraska, Tiemann said the wage-price spiral has not developed in highway work like in the building trades.

He said Vice President Agnew indicated highway trust funds for the second quarter of this fiscal year will be released shortly by Washington.

While cutbacks by the larger states will have a greater impact on the inflation spiral than Nebraska and other smaller states, Tiemann said "every state must cooperate for the plan's success."

Hopeful

Tiemann said the Nixon Administration is hopeful inflation can be stopped with voluntary cooperation.

"Inflation is a brutal thing," he said. "Something has to be done to curb it even though it could have some unemployment effects."

"The alternative is wage and price controls," he said. "That means unemployment, too."

Brandeis Resuming Stamps; Redemption Center To Close

The Brandeis department store in Lincoln will again participate in the S&H Green Stamp program starting today, according to an announcement Tuesday from E. John Brandeis, president of J. L. Brandeis and Sons.

The announcement said the stamps would be given for all purchases made in the Lincoln store except for those made in the cafeteria and certain other services.

An S&H Green Stamp redemption center is also slated to open on the 4th floor of the store on Nov. 13.

The center located in the Brandeis building will be the only redemption center in Lincoln. The S&H Green Stamp redemption center presently located at 530 So. 13th will be closed.

The store, formerly known as Gold & Co., had offered Green Stamps with purchases for many years before its purchase by Brandeis, and a redemption center was located in the store, but the use of the stamps was discontinued some time after the Brandeis purchase.

Cigarette Sales Quit By Hospital

Philadelphia (UPI) — The sale of cigarettes has been halted at university hospital because they are "a known killer," Executive Director Ralph L. Perkins announced Tuesday.

Perkins said that five cigarette machines will be removed on the recommendation of the hospital's board of managers. The machines dispensed nearly 15,000 packs a month, he said.

Pickets Return; Groppi's Censure Attempted

Madison, Wis. (AP) — Welfare recipients, reinforced by hundreds of students and hippies, resumed their picketing of the Wisconsin capitol Tuesday night while legislators took steps to censure the Rev. James Groppi.

Police and National Guardsmen maintained a ring of helmets and bayonets around the capitol as Groppi and an estimated 100 followers arrived with 1,000 young persons picked up during a march through the University of Wisconsin neighborhood.

Participants included young residents of the Mifflin Street neighborhood, source of three days of violent clashes in May over the refusal of police to allow a block party.

Rules Suspension Asked

The assembly was asked to suspend rules and adopt a resolution under which Groppi could be jailed for contempt as a result of an invasion of assembly chambers by demonstrators Monday.

The vote was 64-31, falling four short of the two-thirds needed to suspend rules. A second attempt fell two votes short before the assembly adjourned for the night.

A brief sitdown produced a monumental noon-hour traffic jam on the six-lane highways circling the capitol in the heart of Madison's business district. Then they halted their march for a prayer meeting at the feet of police and guardsmen who stared straight ahead in stony silence.

March Vowed

Demonstrators vowed to keep marching around the building until the legislature restores welfare appropriations slashed from the state budget proposed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

But their chances of a replay of Monday's 11-hour takeover of the assembly chambers, thwarting a joint session of the legislature, seemed to have been dimmed by the show of civil and military force.

Moreover, Circuit Judge William C. Sachtjen signed a temporary injunction obtained by Atty. Gen. Robert Warren barring Groppi and his followers from disrupting government activities in the capitol.

The governor sent a message to the lawmakers saying he hoped the demonstrations would not affect their deliberations on his proposed $33 million welfare and urban aid package. But he said he would not countenance any further disruption of the government and would use whatever force was necessary.

6,000 U.S. Troops To Leave Thailand

Saigon (AP) — The withdrawal of American troops from the Southeast Asia cauldron gained momentum Tuesday with the disclosure of plans to pull 6,000 soldiers and airmen out of Thailand and the departure of 1,000 more Marines from South Vietnam.

Announcement of the impending U.S. troop reduction in Thailand came in a joint communique from U.S. and Thai leaders in Bangkok.

It was much larger than had been expected. Earlier reports said 1,500 of the 49,000 American military personnel would be withdrawn through negotiations initiated by the Thai government.

President Nixon has ordered 60,000 American troops withdrawn from South Vietnam by Dec. 15. More than 25,000 already have left.

Out By July

The 6,000 American servicemen are to be out of Thailand by next July, but the first units will leave within a few weeks. Other troops will follow "as expeditiously as possible, consistent with operation requirements related to the Vietnam conflict," the Thai-U.S. communique said.

The withdrawals will leave U.S. military strength at 484,000 in South Vietnam and 43,000 in Thailand.

The Thai government, sensitive to congressional criticism in the United States that American troops might be drawn into Thailand's border clashes with guerrillas, asked for talks on a cut in the force.

Although there are some American military advisers working with Thai units, the bulk of the U.S. troops are at six Air Force bases where bombing runs are staged against North Vietnamese infiltration routes through Laos. Informed sources say about 126 sorties are mounted out of Thailand daily.

Of the 49,000 U.S. troops in Thailand, 36,000 are Air Force, 12,000 are Army support troops and 1,000 are military advisers.

In Washington, the State Department said the 6,000 troops to be pulled out over the next nine months would consist of 3,200 Air Force men and 2,800 Army men.

The spokesman said it was "too early to say whether any base would be closed" as a result of the U.S. troop reduction announced Tuesday.

He also said that he would not "want to foreclose the possibility that there could be further U.S.-Thai talks on lowering the level of American forces."

Also in Washington, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "It's good but it is not a very major withdrawal. I'd like to see all of them come out."

The big crunch in the cutback of American troops is still in South Vietnam and particularly along the demilitarized zone. Some 1,000 battle-tested Marines who have been fighting along the DMZ boarded C130 transport planes at Da Nang during the past 24 hours for flights to Okinawa.

Seven Green Berets Head Home

Bien Hoa, Vietnam (AP) — With the traditional V-for-victory sign, seven of the eight Green Berets arrested in the alleged slaying of a Vietnamese spy headed home Tuesday after the Army dropped all charges against them.

The eighth member of the group in the secrecy-cloaked case remained behind because he had not completed processing, military spokesmen said.

Led by Col. Robert B. Rheault, commander of all Green Berets in Vietnam until the case broke, the departing Special Forces officers were put aboard a charter plane carrying 212 other homebound servicemen to Travis Air Force Base in California.

The eight Green Berets are due to go on leave while the Army decides their new assignments.

"I'd just as soon have completed my tour," the 43-year-old Rheault said on departing.

Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, of Bloomfield, N.J. who had been named by the Army as the alleged trigger man in the case, said: "It's great to be going."

Joining Rheault on the flight home were Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C.; Maj. David E. Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.; Capt. Marasco, and CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, New York.

Boyle and Sgt. 1.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., 41, Naples, Fla., had been granted immunity from prosecution and ordered to testify or face jail terms.

White House Reportedly Decided To Drop Charges Against Berets

The New York Times

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON

Washington — The White House reportedly made the final decision to drop criminal charges against six Special Forces soldiers accused of murdering a Vietnamese double agent.

Despite a renewed — if less emphatic — disclaimer Tuesday by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, the evidence was accumulating that President Nixon was responsible for the abrupt decision to drop the case.

The official rationale for scuttling the courtmartial of the Green Berets was announced Monday by Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor. He said the Central Intelligence Agency had refused to provide witnesses against the accused soldiers, making a fair trial impossible.

President's Decision

An informed White House source said Tuesday the CIA "could not have made the decision on its own." According to the source, the President alone has responsibility for making the "broad policy decision" on CIA testimony.

"If you make the decision one way," he added, "it leads to an inevitable conclusion" — there could be no courts-martial.

Ziegler insisted Monday that the President had not involved himself in the original decision to prosecute the men or in the subsequent decision to drop the charges.

Tuesday Ziegler softened his position, saying, "To the best of my knowledge," the President had not participated in the decision.

Question Not Taken

Asked if it were not true that Nixon alone had authority over the CIA — and therefore, by declining to overrule the agency's refusal to offer testimony, had made the key decision — Ziegler said: "I won't take your question."

There were others, both within and outside the White House, who pictured the President's involvement more directly, however.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said he had "urged the President to review (the situation) and not have the trial."

Rivers added that he was "glad the secretary (of the Army) changed his position," a reference to Resor's Sept. 18 announcement that he had resisted pressures to dismiss the charges.

CIA Sources

Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said the order to drop the case "came, as far as I know, from the White House." He said his opinion was based in part on information from CIA sources.

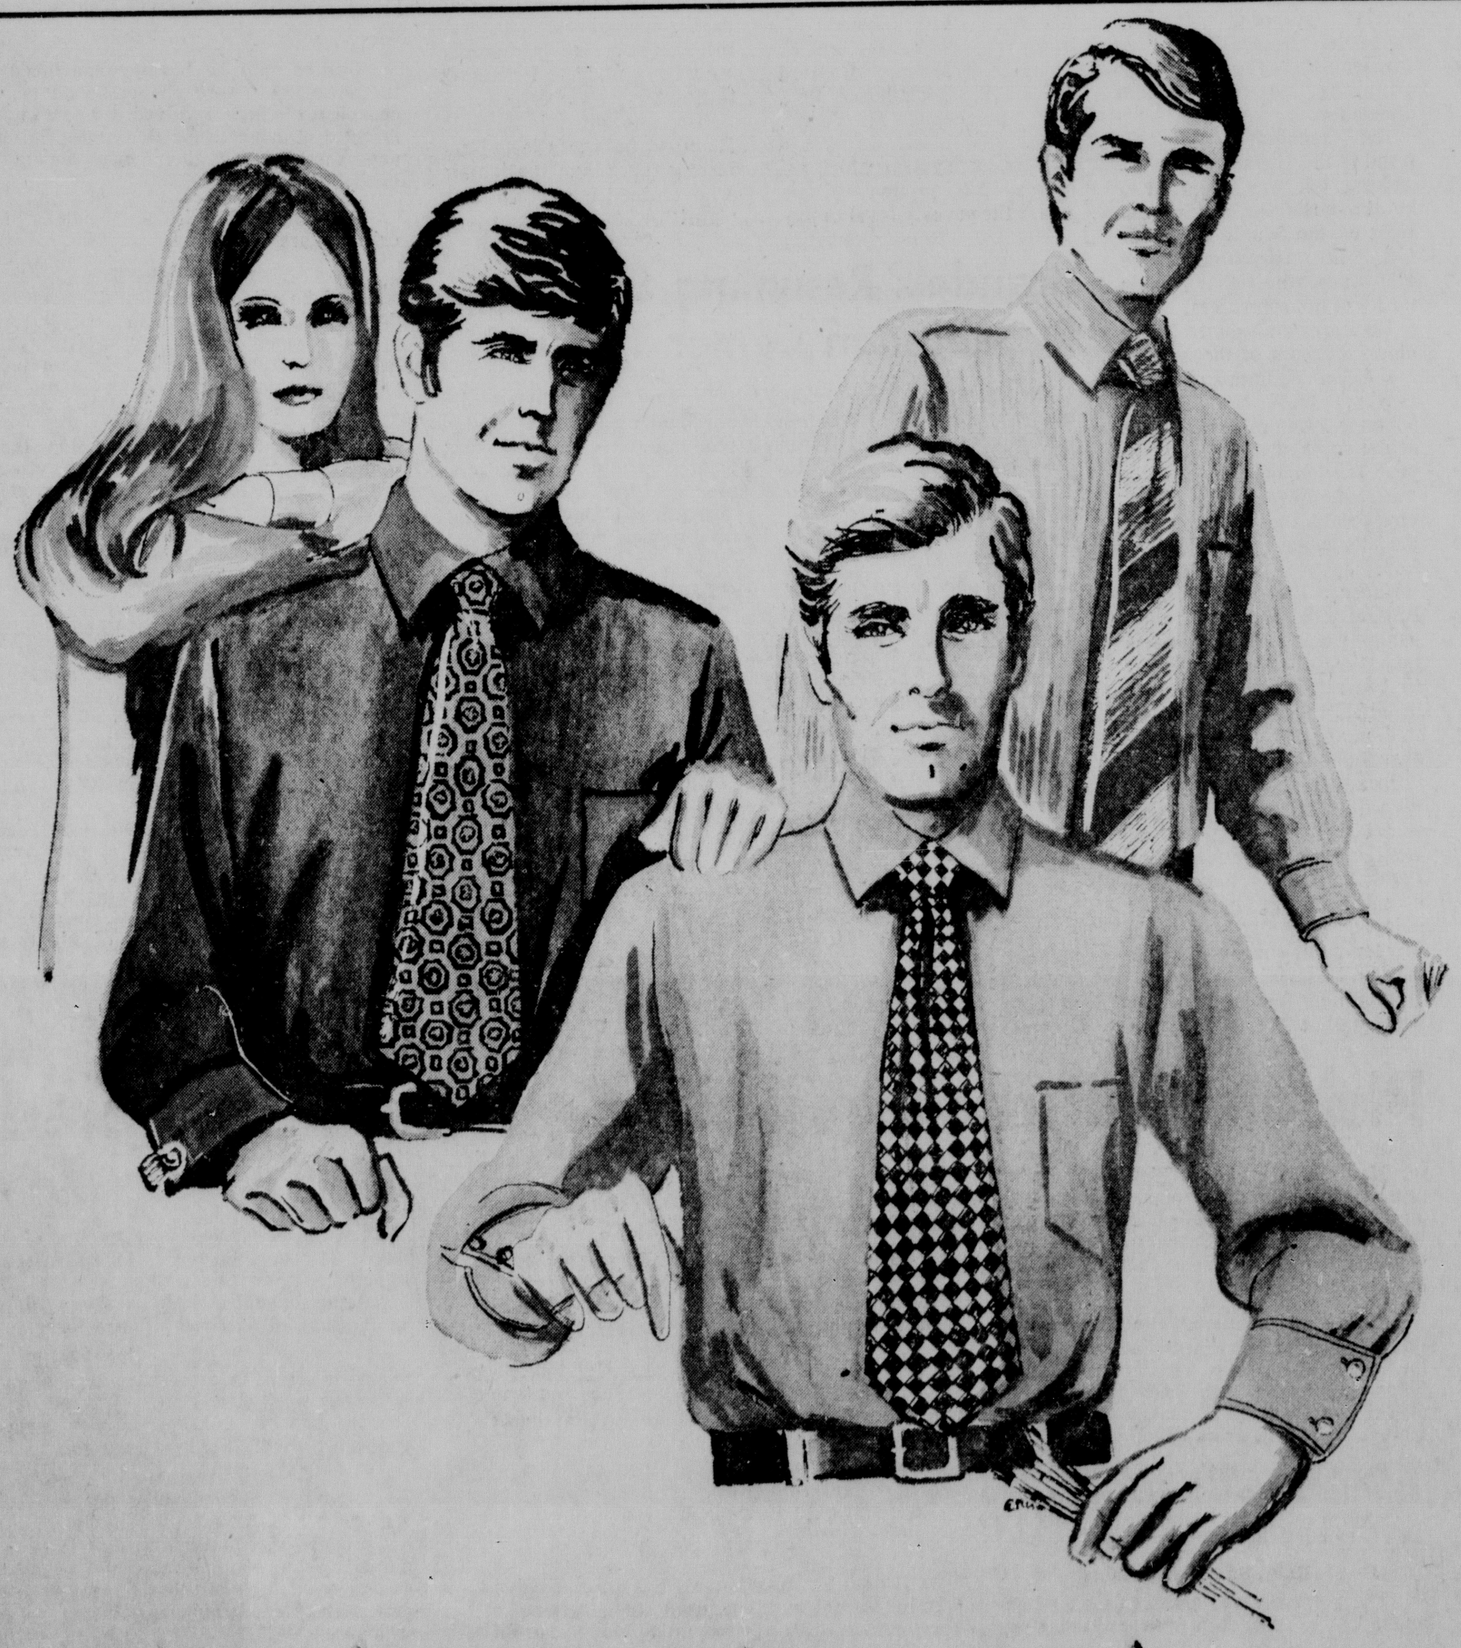

Another member of the Senate Armed Serives Committee, who asked that his name not be used, said he was "positive" the White House had made the final decision in order to avoid a trial which could "ruin the CIA, the Green Berets and the intelligence system."

It was unclear whether the White House had initiated or merely consented to the decision to abandon the prosecution of the controversial case. One source indicated that as recently as Sunday officials of the CIA were prepared to present their personnel as witnesses.

Belmont Area Center Represents Team Effort

Established more than 30 years ago for cultural and recreational purposes, the Belmont Community Center represents a team effort by board, staff and volunteers to present a vital program to meet the needs of the community.

Located at 3335 No. 12 St., the Center promotes civic and community activities and character building programs for children and adults of the Belmont area.

Working in close cooperation with schools and churches in the neighborhood, the center provides diversified activities such as school lunch-hour programs, pre-school group activities, handicraft, gymnasium activities, dramatics, Scout and Red Cross groups, boys' clubs, adult improvement classes and outdoor and indoor sports and games.

"From the beginning, the general purposes of the agency have been the improvement of the immediate neighborhood and the fostering of leadership within the area served by the Center," says Chester Dill, director of the Belmont Community Center.

However, a recent survey revealed that the Belmont Community Center provides services which are enjoyed not only by area residents, but people from all geographic areas of the city.

First organized in 1938, the Belmont Center has been in its present location since 1956. There are four full-time staff members.

The Belmont Community center has been associated with the Lincoln Community Chest for a quarter century, depending on the Chest for approximately 85% of its total budget.

Students Plan To Join Protest Of War Oct. 15

Omaha (AP) — Nebraska college students who oppose the Vietnam War plan to join a national protest Oct. 15.

Programs are being planned at seven Nebraska colleges and universities, including a chapel service at Hastings College and a memorial mass at Creighton University in Omaha.

A former Council Bluffs, Iowa, man, Sam Brown, leads the national movement as head of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee, which seeks an end to "business as usual" for the duration of the war.

Coordinator of activities in Nebraska is Bruce Gulliver, 20, Ralston, Hastings College economics major. He also is president of the Hastings student body and the Nebraska Student Government Association.

Adult dissenters also are expected to join the protests. Mrs. Henry Gale, Omaha, said tentative plans include a visit to the draft induction center, distribution of petitions, a recital of names of Vietnam War dead, a park rally and a candlelight parade if city officials approve.

Nursing Home Group To Vote On Boycotting Welfare Patients

Omaha (AP) — State President James Keillor of the Nebraska Nursing Home Association said Tuesday the association will vote Thursday on the question of boycotting welfare patients.

Keillor said he is urging all members to vote but he has not yet decided whether he will make a recommendation.

Referring to a recent Associated Press story, the Omahan said the picture of nursing homes as a place to die is not justified.

"One third of all patients return to their own homes. Another third is transferred to hospitals and the remaining third remains in nursing homes until they die," he said.

The Nebraska Association's 160 member homes have about 8,000 patients, including about 3,500 welfare patients.

Many patients under Medicare receive treatment in hospitals and are trnasferred to nursing homes to recuperate, Keillor said.

The average stay for Medicare patients is 45 days, while for all patients it is two years.

"We will continue to give emphasis to crafts, recreation and all activities that help speed the recovery process," Keillor said.

He said the state organization is "encouraging the development of physical and occupational therapy courses in the state to help alleviate the shortage" of skilled nursing home personnel.

More Emergency Supplies Shipped To City, County

Emergency supplies for an additional 19,712 persons are being shipped to Lincoln and Lancaster County, Civil Defense officials announced Tuesday.

The supplies will be shipped into the area during a two-week period.

When the shipments are complete, the county will have enough emergency supplies for 237,618 persons.

Omaha Risks Federal Funds 'If Park Is Given To UNO'

Omaha (AP) — Nebraska may lose federal funds to buy park land if Omaha willingly gives up such land to the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Clarence Shafer, Omaha Parks director, said New York state was threatened with loss of funds from the Land and Water Conservation Act if New York City willingly gave up park land for other purposes.

Omaha is faced with the loss of land to the university under terms of a legislative bill which requires the University of Nebraska Board of Regents to begin negotiations with the city for five acres of city-owned land within a three-mile radius of UNO.

Shafer said the land and water conservation funds are being used for acquisition of two Omaha park sites and have been requested for help in purchasing a third site.

He noted there are more than 60 applications pending from Nebraska cities and counties for land and water conservation grants.

Summary of Conditions

A cold front extends from the Great Lakes region into southern Illinois, where it becomes a warm front westward to northwest Kansas and into central South Dakota. A trough of low pressure extends north northwestward from South Dakota low into Canada. This system continues to move eastward and by Wednesday night the low will be over northern Wisconsin.

Some scattered shower activity is expected with the passage of the fronts but it will be confined to the northeastern sections of the two-state area, with only temporary cooling before the approach of the next and somewhat weaker system on Thursday.

Two Men Are Added To Traffic Fatality List

The death of a St. Joseph, Mo., truck driver and a delayed report of a traffic fatality were recorded Tuesday.

The state's highway death toll stood at 279 compared with 339 on this date a year ago.

The Nebraska State Patrol identified the latest victim as Robert L. Wilcox, 33, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was reported dead on arrival at a Kearney hospital after his semi-trailer truck went into the median on Interstate 80 and overturned. The accident occurred about one mile east of the Gibbon Interchange Tuesday morning.

The Alliance Police Department and the State Patrol said Henry Thiessen, 86, of Alliance, died Saturday of injuries suffered Thursday when his car struck a tree in Alliance.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The call by Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott for a six-months moratorium on discussion of the Vietnam war has probably broken the dam. Criticism of the administration for its handling of the war apparently is not far off now and Scott's plea let critics focus in on attacks to begin within the next 30 to 60 days.

The attacks would probably have come anyway, however, so Scott has not really encouraged anything new. About all he has done is provide an opening, which the opposition would have found in any event.

As the record stands, one doubts that there was too much to be said for the moratorium. The signs of change in Hanoi are so insignificant as to be non-existent. In fact, reports from the Paris peace talks are that the North Vietnamese are becoming more obstinate.

Thus, there is absolutely nothing to indicate that a 60-day lull in criticism of the war would produce anything very new. Unfortunately, this is not the way the situation in Vietnam has gone or is likely to go.

The United States plainly is not in a position to call the shots in Vietnam. It has two alternatives — pull out or continue fighting. There are various degrees of these two things but they are the fundamental issues.

The U.S. position would be greatly strengthened if there were not so much hostility in this country to our efforts in Asia, but that is to look only at unreality. The opposition exists and is not about to be quiet.

What the opposition says is that we have no primary interest in Vietnam. It says that if Vietnam falls to the North, that would be no critical loss for us. And it presumes that if this happens, it would mean nothing to the rest of Asia.

★

President Nixon, as did his predecessor in the White House, feels differently. He feels that we have a legitimate position to defend in Vietnam and a considerable interest there as seen in the security of all of Asia.

The militant critics maintain that this is a senseless war, that Americans are being killed on foreign soil for no reason. This is utterly ridiculous.

The U.S. is in Vietnam because it seeks to protect the freedom of an established government. A great deal is made of the imperfections of that government but if a government had to be perfect, not even the U.S. would have one.

The critics talk a lot about the lack of popular support for the present South Vietnamese government. We wonder what they think of the fact that President Nixon was elected by about a 1 per cent edge over former Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

No government is ever going to have the unanimous backing of all the citizens. In West Germany, no major party was able to win even a bare majority and the government, of necessity, will be composed of a coalition of one kind or another.

But who is ready to condemn West Germany on the grounds of poor support for the government among the people?

★

President Nixon, unfortunately, will soon be facing the same thing that helped destroy President Johnson. Nixon seems unable to convince the population of the merits of that war.

If the North Vietnamese ever came to reasonable settlement of the situation, it would be surprising. Certainly, they know the division and criticism that exist in this country over the war. They know that it has run one president out of office and could do the same thing to another one.

The future, on this basis, does not look very promising. Nixon can see no way out of the situation, in the best interest of the United States, and the critics are about to let loose with their big guns and make things even more impossible for him.

One finds it difficult to see much of any hope in future developments concerning Asia. And while no agreeable solution is in sight, the problem becomes more complex every day.

'Face-Saving Device'

Questions Unanswered

The disposition of the celebrated Green Berets case, in which charges against eight Special Forces members accused of murdering an alleged Vietnamese double agent were dropped completely this week, has left several significant questions unsettled:

—The legitimacy of the role of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) whose refusal to allow its agents to testify in the Green Berets' upcoming trial prompted the Army to drop charges. The CIA said if agents were forced to testify, it would bring a necessary end to their missions in Vietnam and endanger national security.

—That the CIA i immune from congressional investigation and from the requirements of law that other agencies and individuals are subject to has been debated for years, but this case underlines the problem. National security considerations are important, but the role of the CIA should be reviewed. The actions of a powerful espionage and secret police organization should not be allowed to go unchecked.

—The whole system of military justice has been the subject of questioning. The Green Berets case echoes prior charges of prolonged imprisonment without bail before trial, the influence of the commanding officer on courts-martial and attempts by the military to stifle free speech.

—Finally, the question of whether the act the Special Forces members were accused of was a duty or a crime. Was this a normal military operation in which the principals were acting under orders? In the absence of a trial, who will say? But there will be like circumstances again and the question will have to be answered.

The secretary of the Army did not provide the answer when he said the alleged acts "represent a fundamental violation of Army orders and principles." It is not enough to say that U.S. servicemen will be held accountable for such actions only when caught.

Honor And Opportunity

It is both an honor and an opportunity for Mrs. Haven Smith of Chappell to be appointed chairman of President Nixon's new task force on rural development. Mrs. Smith is a widely known and respected representative of rural Nebraska and her insight and ability will be an asset for the committee on which she will serve.

But more important than that, the appointment affords Mrs. Smith an opportunity to acquaint the national administration with the challenges and potentialities that exist in the agricultural states of the nation.

The potentiality is two-fold — for the benefit of rural people and to the advantage of suburban America. In maintaining a strong and vibrant urban economy, the rush to metropolitan areas can be averted and the social problems related to that rush greatly reduced.

There are vast acres of open land in this nation that offer a way of life and an economic opportunity that are second to none. But in the natural course of events, none of this will be realized.

As things now stand, people are leaving the farms and small cities of states such as Nebraska and migrating into the major population areas. There they are creating employment, education, housing and other problems which tax the services and facilities of the local government. And the shift contributes to economic stagnation or loss in the area from which these people come.

If Mrs. Smith can manage to convey on the national scene the true picture of rural America and what it can and should mean to the entire country, she will have achieved a very great deal.

Fast Journey To Nowhere

WASHINGTON — Another giant step for machinekind was taken when President Nixon ordered work to proceed on construction of a supersonic jetliner.

At present estimates, and estimates at the start of these mammoth technological projects are always rosily unrealistic, it will cost about $1.4 billion to produce and test-fly two models of the new plane. Allowing for the inevitable upward revisions, we will be lucky if we get off for less than $2 billion. The great bulk of these costs will be paid by the public.

One might carp about the Nixon administration's sense of national priorities. One might complain that it is unjust for a public, most of which rarely ever boards an airplane, to be required to pay for construction of a transoceanic luxury transport.

One might even object, on ideological grounds, that the government is indulging in unhealthy status interference with private enterprise since the plane is to be built by the privately-owned Boeing Aircraft Company.

The Nixon administration's response to the many arguments against the thing is that the Soviet Union, France and Britain have already tested supersonics. Unless the United States obtains a supersonic to compete, we may not only lose a rich international market for new planes with evil effects on our balance of payments but also suffer a decline in national prestige.

There is no examination, of course, of the question whether an airplane traveling twice as fast as sound will make life better, richer and more satisfying. We have been thoroughly warned about the sonic boom, an environmental hazard so intolerable that even the supersonic's enthusiasts hasten to assure us that it will be used only for over-water flight.

What, one may ask, about those persons who happen to be on the oceans? Is life at sea to become a bombardment upon the senses because it is enjoyed by a relative few? And, in any event, who will believe that the many who live on the land will be spared the assault once the supersonic is in production and industry discovers that economic necessity compels it to begin overland flights?

It will be possible to cross between England and America in less than three hours but it is hard to see that this will advance civilized living by a millimeter. Having crossed the ocean in three hours, what then? A three-hour crawl from airport to town through traffic that strangles highways because the government has poured its resources into luxury air travel instead of mass transportation?

Well, what will we do when we get there? We will sit in traffic jams, inhaling air that is poisonous and quietly curse the fact that cities no longer work. Once in town, we will be sequestered in lonely rooms with a television set that mocks us with the presumption that we are imbeciles. Perhaps we will be invited to visit acquaintances in the suburbs. They will probably try to render us senseless with alcohol as rapidly as possible on the not unsound assumption that we are each so culturally impoverished that we will have nothing to say to each other once our small store of gossip is exhausted.

Are we taking our children? Then, it is to put them into school systems that are overcrowded, badly staffed and decaying, and in which they will be, at best, bored, and, at worst, confirmed in the belief of the official orthodoxy that happiness and success is building a better airplane.

At night we will want to be cautious about moving through the streets without gun or dog because of the savagery that breeds in the great sprawling slums of the disaffected poor.

A government speaking for civilized men, asking, "What will they do when they get there?" and receiving such answers as it inevitably must in 1969 and for many years ahead, would sensibly conclude that the journey might just as well be delayed by eight hours, eight days, or even eight years.

Given a slower crossing time, a government of civilized men might have time to make the journey a bit more worthwhile.

Opposed To Dam

Waterloo, Neb.

I read in the daily paper where Governor Norbert Tiemann gave his approval to the Platte River Dam proposal at Ashland, which was very disappointing to me.

He gave one reason for doing so — recreation — and this I oppose! I will not say, "Go destroy the towns of Waterloo, Ithaca, Memphis, Wann and perhaps others along with the non-incorporated housing communities of King Lake and Two Rivers." I will not say, destroy 1,195 dwellings, 52 businesses, 525 farm units, the churches and schools along with thousands of acres of the most productive land in the state.

This project would affect some 126,000 acres of land and 7,000 to 8,000 people would have to be relocated. It seems to me like too much destruction, principally for recreation.

Some would have us believe our Nebraska population would dwindle and progress would cease in a few short years unless we have this large lake for recreation. As I travel the highways and avenues leading into and around Omaha and surrounding towns, I see hundreds of trucks hauling thousands of tons of sand and gravel six days a week, winter and summer. I see new homes being built by the score and many large buildings constructed within a few months. This is convincing to me that we are progressing at quite a rapid pace. We need not worry about progress and population increase. There is only one way for them to go — onward.

Since we are on the subject of population, the year of 2040 comes to my mind, a date which is usually mentioned by the Corps of Engineers when this proposal is discussed. They use this date in describing the economy the people will be enjoying from the results of the dam and reservoir.

With the increasing national and world population, I have a very strong and dedicated feeling that we will be in dire need of these fertile acres that they propose to put in the bottom of a lake long before that date of 2040, to help produce food for the hungry millions.

Nebraska is blessed with an abundance of water. Our main concern should be to keep it as pure as possible. I feel that man can destroy himself from within by polluting the air, water and soil, as well as being destroyed by conquest from without. Pollution is one of our great problems and should be given top priority.

I was shown a map outlining many things near this proposed dam and reservoir, such as a new state fairgrounds, ski resort, supersonic jet airport and four new cities of 100,000 each and much more within a radius of 20 miles.

It seems to me that the great dreamers are planning to build up a congested area in the eastern part of the state, which most people would love to get away from. Why don't the city planners and master builders go to the western part of the state and build a couple of these foreseen cities? I think it would keep our state more in balance.

We do have a large lake in that area, just what the promoters say we need here to attract industry. I am sure the skiers and boat enthusiasts would migrate to these new cities so as to be near a large lake for water recreation.

If this proposal is passed by Congress, I wonder how many Nebraska taxpayers know that they will be doing double duty when it comes to funding this $500 million, perhaps more, gigantic project. We will be paying our fair share from the federal budget, but that's not all. The engineers tell us it would be such a great impact for Nebraska that we would be required to pick up the tab for $30 million. I wouldn't mind paying my share of that $30 million if it were to be used to build schools, roads and help the underprivileged, but I certainly am not in favor of using it to destroy the valuable and treasured possessions we already have.

I do hope that all the citizens and taxpayers in Nebraska will take a good honest look at the facts, before saying "yes, no or it makes no difference to me," in making a decision on this important issue.

LEWIS DOUD

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Fantastic Upswing In Housing Costs

NEW YORK — Eight years ago we sold our Cape Cod cottage for more than we paid for it and thought we were lucky. Last winter it came on the market again — for twice as much.

Five years ago a friend bought a cooperative apartment for $22,000. Last week she sold it for $49,500 — 10 minutes after the first "looker" rushed through her front door.

Whether this sounds like a bad dream or a cause for celebration depends on which side of the deal you're on.

The people who bought the cottage would gladly have settled for a lot less. The lady who made $27,500 profit felt like cracking out the champagne.

It's like this pretty much all over the country, especially in the suburbs of any large city.

Land there is scarce. Construction costs are so high, only what we used to think were rich folks can afford to build. Money is tight. Downpayments have to be bigger. And the interest rates on a mortgage can go as high as eight or nine per cent.

☆ ☆ ☆

The cost of housing and rents is rising almost eight and a half per cent a year. If this keeps up, it will double every 10 years. As a matter of fact, one housing expert says that if your property DOESN'T double in 10 years, it's costing you money.

In the Los Angeles area, a lady who paid $20,000 for her home in 1952 just turned down $90,000. She thinks she'll get more later on. She probably will.

In much of the Southwest, housing costs are twice what they were in 1959. In desirable areas housing is so scarce the real estate people go up and down the street, ringing doorbells and trying to talk owners into selling.

Some buyers get so desperate they scan the death notices for possibilities before they even glance at the headlines.

They don't always wait until after the funeral, either. A hospital worker I know is often cornered by house-hunters to see if she knows of any patient about to reach the point where he'll never have to meet another mortgage payment.

☆ ☆ ☆

Why are housing prices so inflated? Strange as it may seem, one of the big reasons is the administration's efforts to do us a favor and cut down on inflation.

It may sound kooky, but that's the way it's working out. By setting up rules that make money tight and interest rates high, the government has fixed it so mortgages are almost beyond the reach of middle-class families.

You can't escape the crunch by moving downtown, either. A few families tried that. It didn't work. Prices were just as high, and there was the additional problem of finding good schools.

Others dream of snapping up a town house at bargain rates and "doing it over." They wake up in a hurry when they start looking.

In New York, town-house prices in fancy residential districts have zoomed 100 per cent since 1964. There's one for sale now at $2 million, if you're interested.

This sounds like the living end, but don't count on it. There's always next year.

Millionaires Are Riled Up At Tax Reform Bill; Outcome Depends Largely Upon Senator Long

WASHINGTON — The limousines have been lining up on Capitol Hill lately as anxious millionaires have sought out their senators. Corporate executives, financial tycoons, oil barons, horse breeders and blueblood by the dozen have bestirred themselves from their plush parlors and paneled suites to protect their tax privileges. Others have been writing, phoning and pressuring senators from afar.

The Dun and Bradstreet crowd were taken totally by surprise by the tax-reform bill, which the House rushed out before the favored taxpayers and their lobbyists realized what had happened. To save their tax privileges, they have now mounted a hasty but intense pressure campaign upon the Senate.

Many an uncomfortable senator, as a result, is caught between his campaign contributors and the voters. The big contributors are insistent upon preserving their favorite tax loopholes. But middle-income Americans, who have been paying most of the taxes but who also cast most of the votes, have their dander up.

Republican senators debated what to do about taxes last week at a secret policy luncheon. They agreed that they couldn't afford to bite the hands that have been feeding the Republican party.

They decided only to invite former Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson to a future luncheon to advise them whether there is a way out of their dilemma. New York Senator Jacob Javits, fretting and fuming, also urged that an expert be called behind closed doors to explain how the tax bill would affect foundations and universities.

There was tacit understanding, however, that the Republicans would have to heed the anguished appeals of the big contributors and try to modify the House reforms.

☆ ☆ ☆

Whether the rich will keep their tax blessings or Americans generally will get more equitable taxes will depend, in the end, largely upon one man. He is amiable, ambling, unpredictable Senator Russell Long, who runs the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

His political faith is built upon the little man, who "puts down his cotton sack and comes to the polls." But he is also on intimate terms with the millionaires, particularly the oil tycooons, who have escaped paying their fare share of the taxes.

Long has more than a passing interest in the oil and gas industry, which suddenly finds itself hard-pressed to keep its tax loopholes. His father founded the Win or Lose Oil Company in the early 1930s. Happily, the company won more than it lost.

Disbanded in 1948 for a tax advantage, Win or Lose was later quietly reorganized as a family partnership. Russell was given a one-sixth interest in the company when he was a teen. His chief source of income today, he acknowledged to this column, comes from his oil interests.

When he entered the Senate, he said, he considered selling his oil holdings. He consulted old Senate hands and concluded, since Louisiana is a major oil producer, that it would be no conflict of interest for him to own oil stock.

☆ ☆ ☆

The oil industry aside, Russell Long professes to favor tax reforms. The money to run the government, he acknowledges, comes largely out of the pockets of middle-income citizens. But he feels that some of the reforms being discussed will hurt middle-income taxpayers.

"Some people who are hollering for tax reforms," he told this column, "are going to wake up and find their income tax has been raised rather than lowered."

This is particularly true, he said, of the proposed changes in capital gains regulations, which would cost the middle-income taxpayers far more than it would take from the rich.

He intends to push a "millionaire amendment"—a minimum income tax of 20 to 30 per cent of gross income. This would affect those 155 Americans who in 1967 earned more than $200,000 but paid no taxes whatever.

He would also like to raise personal exemptions by $100 and tighten regulations concerning foundations. He also can be expected to try again to fashion legislation that would pay for presidential campaigns out of tax revenue.

High Court To Hear Muny Court Law Challenge

The Nebraska Supreme Court Tuesday agreed to hear an original action by the City of Scottsbluff challenging the constitutionality of a 1969 law creating municipal courts for Scottsbluff and Grand Island.

The high court is also asked to enjoin Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann from appointing a municipal judge for Scottsbluff.

Tiemann recently named a municipal judge for Grand Island under LB1293, which is being challenged in its application to Scottsbluff.

The Scottsbluff suit, filed by City Atty. Loren G. Olsson, contends that LB1293 is unconstitutionality of a 1969 law purports to be applicable to Scottsbluff but not to "20 other first-class cities" in Nebraska.

Olsson alleges that bill attempts to create municipal courts in a "population class" applicable only to Scottsbluff and Grand Island, and "no rational basis (exists) for subclassification of cities of the ifrst class . . ."

It is also alleged that LB1293 purports to give "county-wide jurisdiction" to the municipal court, but only city residents would contribute to its support, thus creating an "inequitable tax burden" between city and non-city residents in the county.

Also questioned is the constitutionality of a "municipal court" with jurisdiction in criminal matters concurrent with a "county court" and civil jurisdiction "in excess of the county court."

The city attorney also contends that LB1293, as amended by two other bills, makes "no express provision" as to whether the municipal court is intended to be substituted for the present police magistrate and justice of peace courts in Scottsbluff.

The invalidity of LB1293, enacted by the 1969 Legislature and signed into law last May by the governor, is also urged on grounds it would grant the city attorney the authority to sign misdemeanor complaints for violations of state law, a power now reserved to the county attorney.

Federal Inspectors Put 'Hold' On 20,000 Campbell TV Dinners

Omaha — The federal meat inspection service has put a "hold" order on 20,000 cases of "TV dinners" here at the Campbell Soup Co.

The hold order is said to have originated over the use of imported meat from Argentina. The U.S. Department of Agriculture requires that meat must be cooked at point of origin and have a cooked appearance throughout to meet import specifications.

The question of the meat used in the "TV dinners" being cooked through to federal meat inspection qualifications is said to have been the reason for holding up the shipment.

When such question arises on a hold order involving imported meat, a federal veterinary spokesman said, two alternatives are usually provided for the produce: it can be returned to point of origin, or the product must be incinerated.

Madrid (AP) — Antonio Ruiz, world-famed Spanish ballet dancer, announced he plans to donate his artistic studio, valued at $1.4 million, to the Spanish state. It includes a small theater, a library, paintings and personal gifts from royalty and others.

Open Gas Pipe Blamed For Fatal Motel Explosion

An open gas pipe into a motel room resulted in the explosion that claimed one life Sept. 17 at the Minute Man Motel in Lexington, the State Fire Marshal's Office said Tuesday.

A report received from Lexington Fire Chief Leo H. Shaw said "gas was turned on to heaters in the new motel but one heater was not hooked up."

Killed in the explosion was Jerry Warner, 32, of Grand Island. Damage to the building was estimated at $7,000.

Shaw's report said the gas had been on 12 hours prior to the blast.

The victim had answered a 9 a.m. call, the report said, and apparently had lighted a cigarette or turned on a light in the bathroom of the motel unit, igniting the captive gas.

Supplemental Funding Bill Signed

Gov. Norbert Tiemann has signed into law the $17½ million supplemental appropriations bill funding most new and expanded programs approved by the 1969 Legislature.

Tiemann last week had indicated to newsmen that he might attempt to utilize his line item veto authority with respect to the bill, LB1096.

The governor's decision to approve the budget bill removed all doubts of constitutionality from the three operational appropriations measures passed by the 1969 session.

All were approved with the emergency clause and are in effect.

Two capital construction budget bills enacted by the Unicameral are in constitutional limbo.

Both measures were subjected to item vetoes by Tiemann; neither received 33 votes on final reading; both will be the subject of a lawsuit seeking definition of legislative-executive appropriations powers.

Two Sentenced For S.D. Larceny

Brookings, S.D. (AP) — Prison terms were given Tuesday to a Council Bluffs, Iowa, man and another from Omaha when the two entered guilty pleas to grand larceny charges stemming from the robbery last June 13 of a rural Arlington home.

Sentenced by Judge H. O. Lund in Circuit Court at Brookings were Michael Finazzo, Omaha, who was given a three-year term; and Raymond Badami, Council Bluffs, Iowa, who received a four-year sentence.

Nixon Asks Americans To Stand Firm On War

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon, in another appeal for public support urged Americans Tuesday to stand fast on Vietnam until the Communists are forced to negotiate a peace settlement.

"We can bring peace, we will bring peace," he said in delivering a Presidential Unit Citation to the 1st Regiment of the 1st Marine Division at the White House.

"And that peace will be due to the fact that Americans, when it really counted, did not buckle, did not run away, but stood fast — and that the enemy . . . had no hope but to negotiate a fair peace, which is all that we require from them."

In an apparent reference to growing debate in Congress over his handling of the war, Nixon said he hoped U.S. political leaders would "match the sacrifices" that American troops have made in the war.

He turned to the Marines at one point during the ceremony and said: "It is very difficult to fight any kind of war. It was difficult even when the country was united as it was in World War II. it is even more difficult to fight . . . when the nation is divided."

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott and his House counterpart, Rep. Gerald R. Ford, reported after a morning conference with the President that Nixon hoped Congress would reject "various bug-out or cut-and-run resolutions."

They singled out a resolution by Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., that would require withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam by Dec. 1, 1970. Scott said Nixon believed that if such a resolution were adopted, "he might as well pull the negotiators out" of Paris.

Scott criticized organizers of the nationwide antiwar protests planned for Oct. 15. "I would defend to the death the right of Americans to be foolish if they want to," he said, "but I earnestly hope that they would give us some breathing period."

Another Paper Price Hike Told

San Francisco (AP) — Crown Zellerbach Corp. said Tuesday it would increase its newsprint price by $5 a ton Jan. 1.

The new price for standard newspritn delivered in the company's western marketing area would be $147 a ton.

Nothing In Law About Standing

Hartford, Conn. (UPI) — A statute passed by the general assembly earlier this year gave women the privilege of sitting at bars in Connecticut beginning Wednesday.

But some tavernkeepers have not given up the battle to keep the fair sex away from this previously male domain. A number of them are removing bar stools since the new law makes no provision for ladies to stand at the bar.

Speculators Hike Mark's Value

©The New York Times

London — European speculators bet on even higher values for the floating deutschemark Tuesday, paying premium prices in heavy new purchases of the West German currency.

Some foreign exchange dealers in London and Zurich were surprised by the strength of new demand at prices ranging up to 26.2 cents (3.81 to the dollar), or 4.8% above the par value of 25 cents (4 to the dollar.)

The continuing strength of the market, despite heavy pre-election purchases at just over par value and temptations to take quick profits on those purchases Tuesday, reflected rising expectations of a revaluation of the mark at a higher fixed rate.

Dealers here were talking in terms of a six to eight per cent change.

Such prospects seemed enhanced by the news from Bonn that negotiations on a new government were under way between the Social Democrats, who have favored revaluation in the past, and the much smaller Free Democratic Party. (More on Page 20.)

After a hectic day of trading, the mark closed in London at 26.1 cents (3.83 marks to the dollar). At this price, the mark was effectively revalued 4.4% above the old fixed rate.

Dealers were bewildered Tuesday afternoon by the unexpected appearance in the market of the Bundesbank, the West German central bank, as a buyer of marks at a premium of over four per cent. This position was signaled by the bank's offer to sell dollars at a rate of 3.84 marks to the dollar. But there were no takers.

There were conflicting interpretations of this move. One was that the central bank was expecting — and even encouraging — a quick upward revaluation.

13 Brazilians Go To Havana

Mexico City (UPI) — Thirteen of 15 Brazilian political prisoners whose freedom was exchanged for the life of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick left for Cuba Tuesday.

A spokesman for the group said the Cuban government's "friendship institute was paying for the trip. It was not immediately indicated how long the group planned to remain.

The only two Brazilians who chose to remain in Mexico are Flavio Tavares, a newspaperman, and Ricardo Sa Rego, an architect.

Gregorio Bezerra, at 70 the oldest member of the group, said he would continue on to Moscow from Havanna for hospital treatment. He is a member of the underground Brazilian Communist Party.

County To Issue Bond For Mid-America Plant

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday expressed their intent in a resolution to issue an Industrial Development Act bond for financing the proposed Mid-America Webpress Inc. plant in the Union Pacific industrial park.

Officials of Mid-America, a wholly owned subsidiary of Republic Corp., had requested a commitment at this time from the county commissioners.

The resolution calls for issuing a bond of up to $5 million, the maximum permitted under the Industrial Development Act.

Roger Dickeson, president of Mid-America, said that the cost of the new plant would run from $3.5 million to $5 million.

Under the arrangement, the county would issue a bond at no cost to taxpayers to pay for the land and building at the new site located between Interstate 80 and the Lincoln Municipal Airport.

The county would then lease the facilities to Mid-America, which would acquire the property once all costs are paid through monthly rent payments.

Dickeson said that "dirt would be moved during the next three weeks" and that the plant should be ready for the first printing run on Feb. 23. He said the entire plant would be finished by May 1.

The company president said after the meeting that interim financing is being used to get the project underway.

"We expect to triple our volume of business once we are at the new site," Dickeson predicted.

Increase Seen

He said that Mid-America plans to increase the number of publications it prints.

"Under negotiation are contracts for some national publications," Dickeson said.

He said that eventually the number of employes would be increased from 130 to 200.

The county board also took under advisement a petition signed by 197 county employes who want paychecks issued once a month rather than every other Friday, as they are now.

The petition brought on a heated exchange between County Clerk Carl Hartman and County Commissioner Ralph Harlan as to who had the authority to determine when paychecks would be issued.

'Won't Change'

Hartman said nine elected officials had endorsed the two-week pay period plan and that "I am not about to change it."

"If the employes don't like it, they can find another job," the county clerk declared.

Harlan, pointing out that the petition is pending with the county board, retorted, "We can do anything we want. We don't have to ask you."

"Possibly so. But I don't think so," Hartman replied.

"Well, we've got courts to determine this," Harlan said.

Declined To Act

The commissioners also declined to act on a resolution to approve the recent appointments made by city officials to the City-County Planning Commission.

Commissioner Bill Grossman said he wants the present contract between the city and the county renegotiated so that the county can appoint a member to the commission. Presently, all appointments are made by the city and confirmed by the county.

"I don't like the idea of rubber-stamping what the city does," Grossman contended.

Planning Director Douglas Brogden pointed out to county commissioners that their appointment of State Sen. Jerry Warner to the commission was done by a "gentlemen's agreement."

Lincoln Again Submits Application For Federal Funds For Projects

Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf announced Tuesday that the city has resubmitted its application to the Chicago office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for federal funds for water, storm sewer and sanitary sewer projects.

Mayor Schwartzkopf said that HUD officials had recommended that the city revise the costs of the projects to reflect current construction costs and then resubmit the application.

HUD officials recently turned down the city's application, which was first submitted in 1967.

The revised figures for the three projects listed in the application total $1,974,780, as compared to the original application of $1,754,244. If the application is funded, the federal government would pay a portion of the total costs.

The projects are a sanitary sewer relief line for Antelope Creek between 21st and M and 56th and Van Dorn, a relief trunk storm sewer from 29th and Leighton to 34th and Starr and a 30-inch water feeder main in 56th St. from Sumner to Old Cheney Rd.

Apollo 12 Crewmen Help In Testing

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 12 astronauts helped crews in a practice countdown test at the launch pad Tuesday, then set aside several hours for a dress rehearsal of how they will walk and work on the moon in November.

Problems with test equipment used to simulate lift-off in one of five engines aboard the first stage of Apollo 12's Saturn 5 booster caused a cut-off in the ignition sequence seven seconds before the moon rocket was to make a mock lift-off, forcing the simulated blast off to be delayed temporarily.

Officials said the problem was isolated to test equipment, however, which would not have been involved in an actual launch.

Systems Checked

Flipping switches inside their spaceship as if it were launch day, Nov. 14, astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Richard F. Gordon Jr. checked out electronic systems during the final hours of the count. Their co-pilot, Alan L. Bean, was not needed for the test and spent time in the crew building nearby.

Called a flight readiness test, the exercise was primarily a thorough check of spacecraft systems and ground support equipment needed during the countdown and en route to and from the moon.

Apollo 12's Saturn 5 rocket was not fueled for the test and the astronauts were not required to wear space suits.

Rehearsal Slated

Navy Cmdr. Conrad, 38, and Lt. Cmdr. Bean, 37 — the two pilots who will walk on the moon while Navy Cmdr. Gordon, 39, takes care of the mother ship in lunar orbit—scheduled a dress rehearsal of how they will spread out experiments on the lunar surface.

A far more elaborate array of experiments will be aboard Apollo 12 than was placed on the moon by Apollo 11 astraonuts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

Included on Apollo 12 is a far more advanced seismic package to listen for moonquakes, an improved device to collect particles from radiation streaming from the sun, a new experiment to measure the density and velocity of radiation near the lunar surface, a device to study the rate of loss of foreign material left on the moon by the landing craft and astronauts and a new instrument to study the moon's magnetic fields.

Conrad and Bean hope to spend about 31 hours on the surface, some 10 hours longer than Armstrong and Aldrin.

Agnew Suggests Arms In Space As Goal Of U.S.

Chicago (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Tuesday that operation of military systems in space "to enhance the national defense" must be one of the objectives of the country's future space programs.

This would assure that "there will be no blind reliance on good faith," he said in a noon speech to the Executives' Club of Chicago.

"A limited military presence in space is important to national defense and should prove an invaluable force for peace in this world and beyond," he said.

Agnew, as chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, headed President Nixon's Space Task Group to study directions the space program should take.

AFL-CIO Services Plan Expanded; Local Representative To Be Named

Washington (UPI) — The AFL-CIO community services program is being extended to seven additional communities, it was announced Tuesday.

Leo Perlis, director of the union program, said the move brings to 167 the number of full time AFL-CIO community services representatives in 133 communities.

Perlis named five of the new representatives. They are Robert T. Lauchard of the Machinists Union in Springfield, Ohio; Don Rowe, Retail Clerks Union, Mansfield, Ohio; Mrs. Helen Moreland, IBEW, Marion, Ind.; Paul Askew, Operating Engineers Union in Norfolk, Va., and Morris Blake, Plumbers and Pipefitters Union in Tampa, Fla.

Perlis said representatives would be named later for Lorain, Ohio, and Lincoln, Neb. All will work on the staffs of United Funds.

The Lincoln representative not only will work directly with Lincoln's 10,000 or more labor force members but will engage in other Chest staff activities, according to Lincoln Community Chest Executive Director Jack Ahern.

Candidates for the post have been submitted to the Chest board and the board's recommendations will be released in the near future.

Congressmen Cool Toward Nixon's Lottery Draft Plan

Washington (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird got a cool reception Tuesday when he tried to persuade Congress that a draft lottery is the fairest way to let young men know their callup prospects.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of a special House subcommittee hearing President Nixon's proposal, said the difference between the lottery and a plan the President could establish without congressional approval is "tweedle dum and tweedle dee."

The lottery plan would still leave most young men guessing as to just when they might be called, Hebert said.

'Blank Check'

And he said removal of the present congressional ban against a lottery — which is all Nixon asks — would give the President "a blank check" to abandon the lottery proposal and establish any system he likes.

"It would be a wide open game," Hebert said.

Laird said the lottery would be the fairest and simplest way to reduce the present seven-year draft-risk period to one year. He said its need is particularly urgent in view of administration hopes to significantly cut draft calls in the months ahead.

Reduced draft calls as a result of scaling down Vietnam troop levels and seeking more volunteer soldiers would raise the probable callup age and thus extend the period of draft uncertainty.

Under the Nixon plan the 365 days of the coming year would be scrambled and drawn. Men whose 19th birthdays fall on the first dates drawn would be the first called, starting the following January. Birth dates drawn last would likely escape the draft entirely.

But committee members including Hebert and Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said a man who drew a middle number, like 260, could only guess when he might be called or what his chances were of escaping the draft.

Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y., pressed the long-standing argument that removal of draft uncertainty might reduce the motivation to enlist or join ROTC, National Guard and reserve units.

JOHNSON LAKE DEVELOPMENT IS DELAYED

Holdrege (UPI) — The Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District said Tuesday development of an island at Johnson Lake near Elwood will be delayed about one year.

However, the district said the lake will be maintained at its present elevation until Oct. 18 allowing Johnson Lakes Development Corp. to complete work on 36 lots in the North Shore area.

Twenty-five of the new lots are located between North Cove and North Shore and the rest between Perch Bay and North Shore.

Central District hydraulic engineer Ralph Knepper said the lake now contains 36,135 acre feet of water and is about two feet below normal fall elevation.

Nixon's 'Blunderbuss' Economic Policies Hit

Atlantic City, N.J. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders said Tuesday President Nixon's "blunderbuss" policies of tight money and high interest have failed to halt inflation and threaten to plunge the nation's economy into a slump.

"The government's restrictive policies, tight money and unprecedented high interest rates contribute to rising living costs, hit residential construction and threaten rising unemployment and recession," they said.

"These policies of general restraint are dangerously wrong," said a report by the 29-man policy-making executive council of the 13.6 million-member labor federation.

"They are ineffective in combating profit inflation and the capital investment boom of the larger companies," said the report prepared for the AFL-CIO's convention opening here Thursday.

"But they hit homebuilding, consumers, smaller businesses and workers' jobs," said the labor council headed by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Warm autumn days are upon us. Sun on the wheat-gold hillsides. A touch of chill in the evenings.

Sentimental times — what happened to the year anyway? I had to have a nip at the cooking sherry to get myself composed again.

Grandma used smelling salts. Wouldn't move a step out of the house without it. It was powerful stuff. I took a whiff at the bottle once. It nearly made me go up the wall like a cat.

☆ ☆ ☆

Speaking of cats. The Manx named Captain Bligh polishes her four kittens each morning.

"Now hear this! Sweepers man your brooms. Clean sweep down, fore and aft."

I said: "That cat will lick those kittens down to a nub."

The Brownie said: "They have to be clean, don't they?"

I said: "Look who's talking. Who screams about getting into the tub in the morning?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Where has the year gone? Not much accomplished. But you can't win them all. In New Jersey — Asbury Park — a demolition crew arrived in the morning. By noon knocked down a three story building.

The owner arrived. Wrong building.

"Across the street?" said the wrecking crew chief. "Now how did I make that mistake. Wait until I tell my wife!"

Easy come, easy go.

☆ ☆ ☆

Still thinking about writing a Great Novel. But for another year have managed to avoid it.

That's an accomplishment. Too many novels are being written anyway.

The reason I was going to write a novel was a book editor I know said (several years ago): "Why don't you write us a novel?"

He mentioned a handsome advance — that's the promise money you get before you lay a pinkie on the typewriter.

However, I've found the first thing you do is spend the advance. Then you've got to write the blooming book.

It's like selling your soul to the devil. There's collection day. Oh, oh. Here come de judge!

☆ ☆ ☆

Think of Queen Elizabeth of England. Good job. Congratulating people who grow the biggest dahlias. Speaking to miners' wives. Reviewing the Guard.

Well, recently she noticed a draft. "Philip did you leave one of the doors open?"

Turns out that Buckingham Palace has developed window warping. Just like any ordinary scatter with a fringe of mortgage on top. Only a palace being bigger has more windows.

Buckingham Palace has 50 warped windows. And fixing those will cost the Queen a pretty English penny. I could tell her something about household problems.

Next the washing machine breaks down.

☆ ☆ ☆

It takes a heap of money to make a house a home. The plumber came this a.m. to see why water didn't drain out of the tub.

It costs a half a C for a plumber merely to look at your tub. He has expensive eyesight.

"You had a lot of hair stuffed in the drain," he reported later.

I put the troops to attention. I said: "All personnel will shave their heads if necessary. In any case, wear shower caps."

"In the tub?" asked the Brownie.

I said: "I'm talking to you, soldier. How'd you like to be transferred to Alaska?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Any more plumbing bills and I'll have to do that novel. The editor has probably forgotten about it now. Or sobered up.

I could give him a little of my cooking sherry. Jog his memory.

It hasn't been a bad year. Just I don't know where it all went. Just went thataway, Sheriff, I reckon.

Day's Good Deed For Boy Scouts: Harvesting Pot

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — Some $1.3 million in marijuana now lies beneath 15 feet of garbage at the city dump here as a result of "Operation Pull-Up" conducted by Sioux City area Boy Scouts.

Gene Battnia, resident agent of the Iowa Narcotics Bureau at Sioux City, estimated the Scouts pulled 16,000 to 18,000 pounds of the marijuana plants which grow wild in Woodbury County.

City Garbage Removal Tax Exempt

By Associated Press

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer said Tuesday that garbage and refuse removal by a city is within the governmental capacity of the city and is, as a result, exempt from taxation.

The opinion responded to a question by State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil as to whether the purchase of garbage and refuse removal equipment by a city would be exempt from sales and use taxes.

McNeil noted that various municipalities throughout the state have city employes haul garbage and refuse with city equipment. But, McNeil said, some cities charge for the service and others do not.

The opinion, by Meyer and Assistant Atty. Gen. Ralph Gillan, said law has given cities the responsibility "in the discharge of its police power and duty to protect the health, safety, comfort, and general welfare of its residents," which includes power to provide removal of garbage and rubbish.

Torch Will Burn For United Fund

. . . $1 MILLION IS GOAL

A torch that will burn until Lincoln becomes a "million dollar city" in the 1970 United Fund drive was lighted in front of the Lincoln Cummunity Center Tuesday as a part of United Fund Day activities.

Campaign Chairman Ken Witt told hundreds of volupteer solicitors attending a United Fund Day luncheon that the torch will burn day and night until the $1,063,889 goal for 23 Community Chest agencies and the Red Cross is reached.

A dynamic young man called on the campaign workers to "unite man to man in the community" to help all persons "become citizens with pride."

'Must Start Locally'

John Putman, 28, of Huntsville, Ala., chosen one of the 10 outstanding young men in America by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce two years ago, declared that efforts to alleviate poverty and suffering throughout the world must start "in the local community."

Putnam said that the "greatest wealth of the country is its people who care to extend the helping hand of friendship — not to carry, but to equip those who need the skills, techniques and opportunity to provide for themselves."

He emphasized that it is not the responsibility of government alone, nor of industry alone to care for all citizens.

The private sector, through such agencies financed by the United Fund, must "make an investment in those who may become an asset to the community . . . Each person should take pride in what has been done and realize that, even as one man, each person can do something."

Blind Since 19

Putnam declared that he would not have had the opportunity to become one of the 10 outstanding young men without the help of individuals and the private sector.

Blind since the age of 19, Putnam acknowledged that he had received the aid of "many helping hands."

Successful as a businessman, professor, athlete and speaker, Putnam now serves as president of the Outstanding Americans Foundation.

Fire Hits Sydney

Sydney, Australia (UPI) — A fire described by officials as the biggest in Sydney in 30 years destroyed 19 warehouses containing cars, newsprint and textiles in the suburb of Botany, causing damage estimated in the millions of dollars.

Goldberg Urges U.S. End Attacks

Washington (UPI) — Arthur J. Goldberg, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, proposed Tuesday the United States cease all offensive action in Vietnam now as a step toward breaging the peace negotiations deadlock.

Goldberg told newsmen on Capitol Hill the proposal was part of an over-all peace plan he will soon unveil.

Nixon Throws Support To Direct, Popular Vote

Washington (AP) — President Nixon, who got less than half the votes cast in the 1968 election, lent his support Tuesday to legislation providing for election of the president by a direct, popular vote.

He endorsed the proposed constitutional amendment passed earlier this month by the House and urged the Senate to adopt it.

Acting majority leader Edward M. Kennedy and minority leader Hugh Scott expressed hope that the measure can pass the Senate this year by the required two-thirds margin.

To become the 26th Amendment to the Constitution, the election reform must be ratified by the legislatures of 38 states, a formidable obstacle to its becoming law in time for the 1972 general election.

As passed by the House, the bill would abolish the Electoral College, and provides for a runoff election between the two leading vote-getters if neither one gets 40% of the popular vote. Under such a system Nixon would still have been elected.

Stokes Wins In Cleveland Primary Election

Cleveland, Ohio (AP) — Carl B. Stokes, the United States' first black big-city mayor, came from behind Tuesday night to firmly claim renomination in Cleveland's Democratic mayoral primary election.

Stokes, the grandson of a slave, erased a deficit of more than 20,000 votes as ballots were counted Tuesday night, rolling steadily toward his victory over white law-and-order candidate Robert J. Kelly.

The final unofficial tally from Cleveland's 973 polling places gave Stokes 92,219 votes to 60,899 for Kelly, a former city service director running in his first election.

Stokes, the favorite in Tuesday's primary battle, is expected to face a much rougher fight for victory in the Nov. 4 general election.

He confronts popular Cuyahoga County Auditor Ralph J. Perk, who is bidding to become Cleveland's first Republican mayor in 28 years.

Kelly grabbed the early lead on returns from white areas considered crucial if Stokes is to defeat Perk.

He built his edge to more than 20,000 votes before Stokes ran ahead on returns from areas containing most of Cleveland's black residents, who make up about one-third of the city's population of more than 886,000.

Liberal Demo Beats GOP Nixon Supporter

Boston (AP) — A liberal Democrat who advocated withdrawal of most American troops from Vietnam within a year defeated a Nixon administration supporter Tuesday night in a special congressional election.

State Rep. Michael J. Harrington, 33, won over Republican state Sen. William L. Saltonstall, thanks to large margins in the cities of the 6th Congressional District.

With all 186 precincts reported, Harrington defeated Saltonstall 72,030 votes to 65,453.

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was at Harrington's headquarters in Salem. He said the result showed voters "spoke a resounding 'No'" to the Nixon administration.

The defeat of the son of retired U.S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall gave a blow to the Nixon administration's Vietnam and domestic policies, both of which Harrington criticized.

The seat went to a Democrat for the first time in 93 years.

Harrington's victory was the third special congressional election this year in which a Democrat defeated a Republican.

When Defense Secretary Melvin Laird gave up his GOP seat to enter the Nixon cabinet, Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., was the winner. When a Montana Republican resigned to accept a judgeship Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., won the seat.

Harrington campaigned on a strong peace plank.

Regional Health Planning Group Selects Directors

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Crete — Regional health planning for southeast Nebraska moved a major step forward Tuesday night with the selection of directors for the pioneering Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SeNHPC).

Forty-two representatives of the participating counties attended the organizational meeting — one which may have ramifications for decades to come. Twelve counties are currently involved, although already-organized Lancaster did not attend.

Mrs. Calista Cooper Hughes, state director of comprehensive health planning, keynoted the session by emphasizing the potentials of area planning. The southeast group is one of the largest volunteer councils in the nation.

"More progress can be made in planning if it comes from the local level rather than from the top," said Mrs. Hughes, a former state senator from Humboldt.

Reviewing the role of her office, she explained its coordination with several state agencies. The office also cooperates with volunteer health groups, she said, and "will be working very closely with an interim study committee of the Legislature."

Bylaws of the groups's constitution were accepted by a committee-of-the-whole, but must be formally ratified by the directors. There was considerable discussion that a board based on population will give Lancaster County a majority, but the proposed board composition was approved, 33-5.

Each county will be entitled to one director per 7,000 population, giving the eleven "rural" counties 20 representatives. Lancaster's 24, already serving on the Lincoln Hospital and Health Council, will join the new directrs to form the board.

Bill Joern, regional coordinator for SeNHPC, explained that a majority of the overall board must be health "consumers" rather than "providers" such as doctors and dentists. Most of the 18 directors named (Johnson and Pawnee's will be selected later) were providers, but this is offset by the Lancaster group.

R. P. (Deb) Hartman of Stromsburg served as acting chairman.

The new directors are:

Army CID Chief Named

The new Army Criminal Investigation Division (CID) will be under the supervision of Maj. Gen. Karl W. Gustafson, the Army's provost marshal general. The new agency is to exercise authority over activities which have previously been handled by the major commands.

Mayor Gets Jaycees' Goat

McCook (UPI) — The billy goat wasn't the scapegoat in this one.

Local Jaycees, in an effort to have members sign up to pay their dues for the year, hit on the idea of passing a goat around as sort of a chain letter reminder.

You'd keep the goat until you came to terms.

All well and good, until the goat was left on the front lawn of City Manager Robert Mills. Mills who was off fishing, thought it was a practical joke when he returned. He called police to impound the poor goat. He said he didn't know about the Jaycees project.

Jaycees paid $3.50 to get the goat out of an animal clinic. They promptly deposited it again on Mills' lawn.

Mills took the hint and is now a paid up member.

Wendelin Baking Merges With King's Foods

Wendelin Baking Co. of Lincoln, Nebraska's largest home-owned bakery, has merged with King's Food Host U.S.A. The merger was announced Tuesday night by Larry Price of King's Food Host and Victor E. and Edward W. Wendelin.

No changes in management, employment or operation will result from the merger. Wendelin's will continue to operate under the same name.

The bakery has been operating in Lincoln for 42 years and supplying Larry Price with hamburger buns for many years.

The Food Host restaurant chain buys 40% of Wendelin's bun output, according to Edward Wendelin. King's locations in Lincoln, Omaha and Fremont use Wendelin products.

The bakery is operating at full capacity with 85 employes and last Thursday recorded the highest volume of business in its history.

"We plan to increase the volume of bakery goods as well as employment in the bakery. Plans are also under way for modernizing some of the equipment in the Wendelin plant."

The bakery has been operated by three generations of Wendelins. It was founded by Motts Wendelin who came to Lincoln from Vienna in 1899 at the age of 14.

He and four other bakers produced 600 loaves of bread each day in brick ovens at a bakery where the Journal-Star Printing Co. building now stands.

In 1928 the elder Wendelin and his two sons Victor E. and Edward opened their first plant on South St. with 20 employes. The payroll for the first year was $24,000.

Today, with an annual payroll of more than $650,000, the bakery produces 3,200 loaves an hour and distributes products within a 75-mile area of Nebraska, according to King's Food Host.

Former Nazi SS Official Arrested

Berlin (UPI) — West Berlin justice authorities Tuesday announced the arrest of Franz Koenighaus, former Nazi SS official, on charges he ordered the execution of more than 1,000 Russian Jews between 1942 and 1944.

Koenighaus, 63, was identified as a former head of the Nazi office in charge of Jewish prisoners of war.

Order Delays Enforcement Of Rules On Barber College

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Tuesday granted a temporary order restraining the Nebraska Board of Barber Examiners from enforcing rules and regulations of the board against the Lincoon Barber College.

Judge Scheele also set Oct. 6 for hearing on a temporary injunction sought by the college in its petition seeking a judgment declaring void and unconsitutional sections of the Barbering Act which purport to make it unlawful for any operator of a barber school to perform certain acts.

According to the petition, the regulations make it unlawful for a college or school to operate business for profit in connection with the school or to charge patrons for barber work rendered for training purposes a sum in excess of the fair cost of material actually used.

Among the other provisions of the law, alleged by the plaintiff to be void, are rules making it unlawful for a barber school to advertise that it renders barber services or to permit any registered apprentice to practice barbering except under supervision of a registered barber of experience.

The plaintiff contends that the regulations deny the school equal protection of law, attempt to prohibit the plaintiff from engaging in lawful business, attempt to grant to certain persons special and exclusive rights and privileges, immunities and franchises, are unfair, discriminatory, arbitrary and are an unnecessary interference with business and constitute an abuse of police powers and class legislation.

Fetus Specimens 'Mistakenly' Put In Hospital Trash

Two fetuses found in a creek Monday night apparently were mistakenly included with material that was to be thrown away, a Lincoln General Hospital pathologist said Tuesday.

Dr. O. R. Hayes said the hospital had been disposing of some material in storage recently, but that the fetuses were not supposed to have been disposed of.

"It was pure accident that the specimens were mixed up with the other material," Hayes said.

"Normally we would incinerate these specimens if we planned to dispose of them," he said.

The two specimens, which dated back to 1956, were found in separate containers in a creek in Irvingdale Park, a few blocks from the hospital.

Police said the fetuses were probably taken from the trash at the hospital.

City Sales Tax To Be Discussed At Joint Meeting

A discussion of the Lincoln city sales tax will highlight a joint meeting of the taxation and wholesale committees of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Chamber meeting room.

The City Council, by virtue of authority granted by the Legislature, approved a one-half per cent sales tax to become effective Jan. 1. The Chamber is in the process of polling its full membership to test public opinion of the tax.

Chamber spokesmen said the joint meeting of the two committees will be open to all interested persons. The meeting will be chaired by tax consultant and former State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington.

Union College Receives $6,000 In Two Grants

Union College is the recipient of $6,000 in grants offered by two Nebraska foundations.

The Cooper Foundation of Lincoln has given the liberal arts college $1,000 for use in such areas as improvement of the curriculum, scholarships for superior students and retention of faculty of proven excellence.

In past years, the grant has been appropriated for the Kaleidoscope Program, to financing graduate study for instructors and similar programs.

The $5,000 donated by the Woods Charitable Fund, Inc., is the second payment on a $15,000 grant awarded in 1968. It will be used to implement the vocational-technical program at the school.

Protestants March, Eye General Strike

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Rev. Ian Paisley led about 1,000 Protestant demonstrators in a march on Northern Ireland's parliament Tuesday and threatened to close down Belfast with a general strike.

The flag-waving demonstrators massed on the steps of the parliament building to protest government proposals to meet Roman Catholic demands for civil rights reform. Inside, Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark was presenting the program to lawmakers as a "fresh start" in trying to solve the problems of the bitterly divided province.

Paisley, one of the most militant Protestant clergymen in Northern Ireland, had called for 100,000 Protestants to join him in the march. Police said that at its height, the crowd aproached 1,000.

"This parliament has heard today the marching feet of a victorious army of Protestantism, Paisley told his supporters.

"If the government does not listen to grass-roots opinion, we will call a general strike in this city when (British Home Secretary James) Callaghan comes back".

Callaghan is due to make a second visit to Northern Ireland next week for talks with Chichester-Clark on measures to meet Catholic demands.

Takeover Said Tried

Milwaukee (UPI) — Bath Industries, Inc., of Bath, Maine, has sued in federal court to block an alleged takeover attempt by Madison Fund, Inc., International Investment Co., Emmet J. Blot, a Bath director and several other firms.

Magazine Seals Of Approval Said A 'Double-Cross'

Washington (UPI) — Bess Myerson Grant, New York's commissioner of consumer affairs, charged Tuesday Good Housekeeping and Parents' magazines were trying to "double-cross" consumers with their seals of approval.

The 1945 Miss America joined Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., in attacking the seals of approval the magazines give to advertisers in a hearing before the National Commission on Product Safety.

Spokesmen for both magazines defended the seals.

Mrs. Grant said the two magazines try to "double-cross the housewife and mother who trust the seals they confer on products for her home."

Rosenthal said the seals "have no public interest value and are of little value or no benefit to anyone except advertisers."

Both Mrs. Grant and Rosenthal said the seals imply product safety and they urged the setting of federal standards for the seals.

Raymond J. Petersen, publisher of Good Housekeeping, said the magazine "evaluates rather than tests" products that receive its seal. He said his magazine does testing but this does not mean that the seal is "a certification of a product."

Court Rejects Move Against Pay Television

Washington (UPI) — The U.S. Court of Appeals Tuesday rejected a move by movie theater operators to block a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) ruling authorizing the start of pay television in the nation's largest cities on a limited basis.

The courst said: "The likely result of the commission's action is to provide the public with additional information and ideas rather than repressing existing sources."

The National Association of Theater Owners and the Joint Committee Against Toll TV, appealed for a review of the FCC order, calling it a systematic and unconstitutional discrimination against lower income groups.

The FCC had dismissed the argument as "patently insubstantial and patently frivolous." It said pay televisiin would appeal primarily to those persons in the $4,000 to $10,000 income bracket.

On June 12, three days after the appeal was filed, the FCC issued technical standards for the operations. Its order of last December would allow pay television in the 80 U.S. cities that have at least four commercial television stations.

In an opinion written by Appeals Court Judge Edward Allen Tamm, the three-judge panel said the FCC had issued a "carefully reasoned document" based on a 17-year study of what the FCC calls subscription television (STV).

"We hold that the commission acted reasonably and within the scope of its authority, both in making its initial decision to authorize permanent nationwide STV and in imposing specific regulations governing subscription television," the opinion said.

The theater owners argued that the FCC had no authority to issue such decisions and that the FCC's decision was "arbitrary and capricious because the commission failed to set forth adequate reasons" and avoided a detailed inquiry.

Mao Makes First Public Appearance In Over 4 Months

Tokyo (AP) — Mao Tse-tung made his first public appearance in more than four months Wednesday, waving and smiling at a massive rally celebrating Red China's 20th anniversary, Peking radio reported.

The emergence of the 75-year-old Mao and his successor-designate, Defense Minister Lin Piao, scotched reports that they were dying or dead. Such speculation had been touched off by their absence from public functions since May.

In other anniversary developments:

—Premier Chou En-lai said Red China is making nuclear weapons only for defense purposes and "would never commit aggression against others."

—The Soviet Union called for normalizing relations with the Peking regime.

Mao and Lin were identified as now sharing direct command of the 2.5 million-man army.

A Chinese-language broadcast heard in Tokyo said Mao and Lin had appeared on the rostrum of the Gate of Heavenly Peace in Peking to preside over the ceremonies in the square below.

Mao, the broadcast said, waved and smiled.

He then shook hands with Chinese officials atop the gate while hundreds of thousands of Chinese shouted, "Long live Chairman Mao!" the broadcast said.

Mao's new job as co-commander of the army with Lin was revealed in an anniversary editorial in the official Peking People's Daily, the theoretical organ Red Flag and the Liberation Army Daily.

Until now, Lin was listed as sole commander of the armed forces. As recently as Aug. 4 the three organs identified Mao only as the army's founder and Lin as its active, direct commander.

The editorial which made the disclosure said China is ready to settle border conflicts through negotiations but warned that if the United States or Russia tries "to impose war on the Chinese people, we will keep them company and fight to the finish."

Mao's assumption of the joint command is believed connected with increasing tensions on the Chinese-Soviet borders.

Speaking at a reception he gave for 5,000 people on the eve of Communist China's 20th anniversary, Chou said China's goal is a ban on all nuclear weapons but that it must be prepared for any nuclear war or blackmail waged by the United States or the Soviet Union.

In Moscow, Tass reported that the Soviet Union sent Peking a congratulatory telegram to mark the anniversary and called for normalization of relations with the Peking regime. The message urged "the solution of disputed questions by peaceful means, through talks and consultations," the Soviet news agency said.

The telegram called the establishment of the People's Republic of China "a historic victory of the working people of China."

Rogers, Gromyko Meet To Discuss Mideast

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers held a final meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the Mideast Tuesday night amid signs that any peace settlement will be a slow, difficult process.

Jordan's foreign minister, who saw Rogers shortly before the two big power foreign ministers met in Rogers' apartment, said "there can be no progress" toward a solution unless Israel promises complete withdrawal from Arab lands.

The statement to newsmen by Abdul Monem Rifa'i was preceded by one from Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, who also talked to the U.S. secretary of state.

Mrs. Meir portrayed the Arabs as out to "destroy" Israel. She again spoke for direct negotiations with the Arabs, which the Arabs have refused.

The Rogers-Gromyko session was the third and last parley between the two during their stay at the U.N. General Assembly's fall session. Most of their time has been devoted to working out a basis for Big Four efforts toward a Mideast settlement.

Earlier in the day Rogers called on Mrs. Meir and then had separate appointments with three Arab foreign ministers-from Morocco, Jordan and Saudia Arabia.

The Arabs were continuing to denounce Israel as the aggressor and vowing against direct negotiations until Israeli forces withdraw from Arab lands.

Israelis Raid South Of Suez

Tel Aviv (AP) — Israeli jets kept up their pounding of Egyptian military targets Tuesday with a late night raid south of Suez.

The military command cited "continued Egyptian aggression in the Suez region," as the reason for the strike, the second successive night of sorties.

The jets roared across the Gulf of Suez and hammered Egyptian military objectives on the western shore, scene of almost daily attacks by Israeli aircraft, a spokesman said.

All the Israeli planes returned safely, he added.

Brandt Given First Crack At Coalition

Bonn (AP) — West Germany's tiny Free Democratic Party decided Tuesday to give Willy Brandt's Social Democratic Party first crack at forming a new coalition government.

But the mini-opposition group, main loser in Sunday's election, kept the door open for a possible alliance with Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats, still the country's strongest party.

The liberal Free Democratic leader, Walter Scheel, told newsmen the party leadership, with a few exceptions, voted "to negotiate first with the Social Democratic party."

To Call On Heinemann

Social Democratic sources said Brandt and Scheel would call on President Gustav Heinemann Wednesday to declare formally their intention to form a ruling partnership.

Together, the two parties hold 254 of the 496 Bundestag seats — a 12-seat majority over the 242 of the Christian Democrats, who also have offered coalition talks to the Free Democrats.

The Bundestag is the lower house in the West German parliament.

The Christian Democrats' Bavarian wing, headed by Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss, called for a revival of the old tie with the Free Democrats.

In the past, the Free Democrats have formed several alliances with the Chirstian Democrats, but never with the Social Democrats. The last government of Free and Christian Democrats broke up in 1966. The resulting crisis ended with the present "grand coalition" of the two major parties.

Stumbling Block

Party sources said the main stumbling block to a Social Democratic-Free Democratic government is the Social Democrats' plan to give workers a bigger say in industrial management. The Free Democrats oppose this.

With signs pointing toward a Brandt-Scheel coalition, speculation was running high on the composition of the new government.

The left-of-center Frankfurter Rundschau suggested that Brandt would name Scheele foreign minister.

The paper said Herbert Wehner, present all-German affairs minister and deputy Social Democratic leader, would be appointed vice chancellor. Economics Minister Karl Schiller would keep his present job.

The coalition talks are necessary because Sunday's voting gave no clear mandate to either the Christian Democrats or the Social Democrats.

U.S. Tries To Recover Fumble By Nixon

Washington (AP) — A State Department spokesman said Tuesday the United States looks forward to working closely with whatever new German government emerges from the elections of last weekend.

The comment, made in response to a news conference question, appeared to be a low key effort to overcome — as far as possible — what some Germans consider a fumble by President Nixon Sunday.

Nixon telephoned election congratulations to Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger before the final results of the voting were determined and at a time when it appeared that Kiesinger's party had won. Later figures showed that neither Kiesinger's Christian Democrats nor the Social Democrats, led by Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, had the decisive number of votes.

West German government officials were quoted in dispatches from Bonn Monday s calling Nixon's speedy congratulations "a serious faux-pas."

There's A Fun Weekend On The Way

MISS SUSAN JEAN PHELPS

Of special interest this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Phelps of the engagement of their daughter, Susan Jean, to Robert A. Gamer son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gamer of New York City.

The wedding, which will take place in Lincoln, is planned for Tuesday, Dec. 23.

Miss Phelps, the granddaughter of Mrs. Gene Huse of Norfolk, is a graduate of the University where she majored in English literature. During her career on the University of Nebraska campus the bride-elect was active in the Student Senate, and in the Free University project. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Mortar Board, and was named to Phi Beta Kappa. She now is careering in New York City where she is an editorial assistant in the Urban Affairs Program of Harper and Row, Publishers, and the Metropolitan Applied Research Center.

Mr. Gamer is a graduate of City College of the City University of New York where he also majored in English literature. During the past year Mr. Gamer has done extensive work with the psychiatric patients at Bronx City Hospital, and now is teaching in New York City.

Suburban Areas

It never pays to take anything for granted — a weekend, for example. We had just finished giving the approaching Friday-to-Monday period a doleful look because the Nebraska stadium would be a lonely place on Saturday afternoon — No pre-game parties, no post-game parties — and no guests. We were wrong.

There is no football game at home, there are no pre-game or post game parties, but there is a very festive party — and there are guests.

* * *

The party is a birthday celebration, and the celebrant is Mrs. R. E. Campbell whose popularity with her family is bringing 'happy birthday' guests.

On Friday evening Mrs. Campbell's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Campbell will be a dinner host and hostess at their home in honor of Mrs. Campbell, and included among the guests will be Mrs. Campbell's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hurtz of Malibu Beach, Calif. who, of course, will be the house guests of Mrs. Hurtz's parents. Also coming from California — Los Altos Hills, to be specific — will be a grandson, Don M. Campbell, Jr., Mrs. Campbell and their two sons.

* * *

There is a party on Saturday evening, also — a dinner dance for the members of the One Hundred Club. The theme for the affair, which will be held at Hotel Cornhusker, is "Moon Blast", and the party planners include Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Wendt, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Amen, Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sands, Mr. and Mrs. William Slaughter and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin White.

During the festivities seven new member couples will be introduced and the brand new One Hundred Club-ers include Dr. and Mrs. Quentin Quay, Mr. and Mrs. James Pittenger, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Gorthey, Mr. and Mrs. George Klein, Mr. and Mrs. George Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Don Duven and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hayes.

The new officer couples of the One Hundred Club include Mr. and Mrs. Grant Reed, president; Mr. and Mrs. W. Wesley Radcliffe, vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wekesser, secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Coy, treasurer.

Whatever happened to September? Here it is October, almost before we have had an opportunity to become adjusted to the fact that autumn (with its back-to-school activities, football games and parties) is upon us once again.

But there is a very good reason for the rapid passing of that beautiful first month of Nebraska's autumn — it was so filled with interesting activities, comings and goings, and just casual, but fun, gatherings of friends, that there was no room for boredom.

In fact, the month was so busy that a bit of September news must be told before mention is made of October plans.

The last weekend of September, there were houseguests at the Eastborough home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McBride. The Saturday morning-to-Sunday evening visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Jean Truex and their daughter, Sue, of Norfolk, and Miss Darcy Ball of Fremont.

The cheer-provoking game at Memorial Stadium last Saturday was the incentive for visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Miller in Eastborough.

Arriving in plenty of time for the game — remaining as the overnight houseguests — of Mr. and Mrs. Miller were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Broadwell and their daughter, Susan, who are loyal Big Red fans from Central City.

There is news of more visitors in suburbia, but first we would like to introduce some newcomers to Eastborough. The new residents (since early September) at 6945 Marcia Lane, are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bartlett and their two sons Whitney and Bryan, who formerly made their home in Scottsbluff. Mr. Bartlett, incidentally, is associated with the University of Nebraska KUON-TV educational station.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith have some most welcome visitors at their 2902 No. 60th Street home. Arriving on Monday for a week-long visit were Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Smith of Long Beach, Calif., whose visit will be the incentive for a family gathering.

Wednesday, Oct. 1, will be a day of celebration for the visitors who will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary at a family dinner at the home of their son and daughter-in-law.

Included among the dinner guests will be the couple's son, Jerry Smith of Waukegan, Ill.; son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hall; granddaughter, Mrs. Robert Elliott; and Miss Jayne Smith (a friend but not a member of the Smith family).

Unable to be present for the occasion will be the honored couple's son, Bud R. Smith of Newport, N.C.; and daughters, Mrs. Stanley Smith, Crescent City, Calif., and Mrs. Hazel Upton, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Country Club Terrace residents who have returned home after a busy September of commuting between Lincoln and Milford are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Parks who are the new owners of a vacation cabin on the Blue River near Milford. The past month has been a busy one for the Mr. and Mrs. who have been repairing, painting and decorating in preparation for many future weekends of just fun and relaxation.

Saturday was a day for visitors at the Eastmont home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eberhard who welcomed their nephew, Tom Torbleau, Mrs. Torbleau and 18 month-old son, Jay, of Madison, Wis. Accompanying the Trobleau family to Lincoln for their brief stay en route to a holiday and Mrs. A. R. Rogeberg.

Naturally, the center of attention was young Jay, whom Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard had not seen since he was a few weeks old.

Lincoln Junior League Provisionals

Tuesday, Sept. 30, was a turning point in the lives of 24 young Lincoln women — they will be busier than ever. We are speaking of the brand new crop of freshmen in the Lincoln Junior League — the provisionals.

The group, which someday will have full-fledged membership in the League, has much to do between now and then. The activity begins with a two-day Junior League orientation on Oct. 9 and 10, and on Tuesday of the following week, Oct. 14, the Provisionals will learn about the background and development of the community in which they live when Dr. Bernice Slote speaks to the new members. Dr. Slote's lecture will be followed by a tour of the Nebraska State Historical Society and a puppet show presented by some very expert Junior League puppeteers.

Before we mention what lies in wait for the Junior League Provisionals between now and next March, however, it might be well to mention their names.

The group includes Mrs. Steven Bailey (Jane Wescott); Mrs. Robert Erle Campbell, II (Candy Meedel); Mrs. Harold Demaree (Beverly Jacobs); Mrs. Thomas Fitchett (Cin Holmquist); Mrs. Houghton Furr, Jr. (Sharon Framstead); Mrs. Frederick Gottschalk (Gretchen Gautsch); Mrs. Pierre Joujon-Roche (Sharon Osborn); Mrs. Con Keating (Barbara Schmidt); Miss Lisa Kilbourne, Mrs. Wayne Kubert (Carole Trott); Mrs. Pat Mulligan (Mary Welsh); Mrs. Robert Norris (Dee Haynie); Mrs. Charles Pallesen (Lorraine Sysel); Miss Suzanne Perkins, Miss Julie Phelps, Mrs. Don Prieb (Pat Severens); Miss Lynn Purvis, Mrs. Robert Smith, (Buffie Carpender); Mrs. Arthur Thompson (Carol Ronin); Mrs. Gene Tice (Janet Longren); Miss Leslie Walt, Miss Avery Woods, Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, III (Donna Wiemann and Mrs. Richard Young (Ruth Chubbuck.)

Now back to the busy schedule—

On Nov. 10, the new Provisionals will entertain Lincoln's Mayor and the members of the city council at luncheon. The mayor and the council will turn the tables following the luncheon, and have invited the group to sit in on a city council meeting which, of course, will attend.

There is something glamorous in store for Nov. 20 — the Victorian Christmas which the Lincoln Junior League has planned, and which will be at Fairview, the old William Jennings Bryan home, and we're sure that every Provisional will be well acquainted with every nook and cranny of Fairview before her Provisional days are over.

In December, Dec. 9, to be specific, there will be a visit to the Madonna Home; on Jan. 27, the Provisionals will hear all about parks and recreation, and on Feb. 10, they will learn the abc's of the welfare programs in Lincoln. Feb. 17 will be devoted to the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery where there will be a 'Tour and Talk', and a panel discussion on the arts.

Education makes its entrance into the lives of the Provisionals on March 10 — higher education in the morning — public education in the afternoon.

And on March 17 another 'Tour and Talk' has been planned for the morning hours when the young women learn about TRY. In the afternoon they will explore the inner workings of the city's health services.

Perish the thought that a Provisional's time is her own before, after or in between the dates mentioned above.

There are other meetings scheduled which have to do with Junior League activities and policies. Those dates are Oct. 21, Oct. 28, Nov. 4, Dec. 2, Jan. 6, Jan. 12, Feb. 3, Feb. 24, March 3, and April 7.

Pictured are the Lincoln Junior League's 1969 Provisionals. Seated, left to right, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Campbell, II, Mrs. Demaree, Mrs. Fitchett, Mrs. Furr, Jr., Mrs. Gottschalk, Mrs. Joujon-Roche, Mr. Keating, Miss Kilbourne, Mrs. Wayne Kubert.

Seated on the floor, left to right, are Mrs. Prieb, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Tice, Miss Walt, Miss Woods, Mrs. Woods, III, and Mrs. Young.

Philadelphia Orchestra

BY HAROLD C. SCHONBERG
(c) New York Times Service

New York — In the 1930's and 1940's, when the American orchestral scene was dominated by the big three of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, the one orchestra that guest conductors wanted to confront was the Philadelphia. Yes, the New York and Boston ensembles were among the world's greatest. Nobody would deny that. But Philadelphia!

Visiting conductors would roll their eyes, make gestures in the air, stutter incoherently and lick their lips when dicussing the Philadelphia Orchestra. To a man, everybody who had the honor of conducting it would say there was nothing like it in the world. That tone! That discipline! That virtuosity!

On Tuesday, the Philadelphia Orchestra visited Philharmonic Hall to start its New York season. It came in with a special kind of publicity, much being made of the fact that this is the orchestra's 70th year. A history of the orchestra by Herbert Kupferberg, published by Scribner's will soon be available, tied to the 70th anniversary observances.

Now 70 its a rather arbitrary number for an anniversary. What's the big fuss? Doesn't 75 make more sense? And, of course, 100 is the approved anniversary number. But who wants to wait until the year 2000? Eugene Ormandy might not even be conducting the orchestra at that time.

So, even though the 70th anniversary is a little hoked-up, I'll go along. Only a few years ago, after all, I called the Philadelphia Orchestra the greatest virtuoso ensemble in the world, and possibly the greatest of all time. I see no reason to change my opinion.

Leopold Stokowski broke his contract with the Cincinnati Symphony to come to Philadelphia. His first concert at the Academy of Music (which was built in 1857 and still is the home of the orchestra) took place on Oct. 11, 1912, and consisted of Beethoven's "Leonore" III, the Brahms First, Ippolitov-Ivanov's "Caucasian Sketches" (those were new then) and Wagner's "Tannhauser" Overture. Stokowski was relatively inexperienced, and he made no startling moves for a few years. But from the beginning he had an electrifying personality.

Even in Cincinnati he had been accused of "Stokowskiizing" music. In Philadelphia, starting in 1916, he put his mark not only on the orchestra but on music in America. From that year came the advanced reperatory, the experiments within the orchestra (new seatings, non-uniform bowing and the like), and what came to be called the Philadelphia sound — which, of course, was the Stokowski sound. Also around that time, in 1917, came the first Philadelphia Orchestra recordings.

Stokowski's 23 years as head of the Philadelphia Orchestra were years of unparalleled excitement. And as the orchestra grew, he grew. He had started with a salary of $12,000. In 1924 he was given a 10-year contract calling for $70,000 annually.

Commented Stokowski, with the objectivity and detachment that has been his life-style, "the directors are men of unusual mental ability, character and vision." Stokowski was worth every cent of his salary. It was he who made the orchestra the breathtakingly colorful responsive instrument it was.

He may have tinkered with music, he may have vulgarized Bach, he may have estabished a cult of personality — but he did have an ear, he did have intellectual curiosity, and there was thunder where he walked.

On the face of it, Eugene Ormandy was a peculiar choice to succeed Stokowski. He had first appeared with the Philadelphia Orchestra in 1931, as a guest. His success was such that he was called back in successive seasons, then shared one season with Stokowski, and was named musical director in 1938. (Stokowski conducted the orchestra, off and on, through the 1940-41 season, after which he was not invited back for about 20 years.)

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

How best to deal with recurring card combinations is covered in most textbooks on the play of the cards, but some combinations are so rare that they are seldom seen in print and you must work them out all by yourself.

South is in four spades and West leads a diamond. Since a diamond loser is inevitable, South's only real problem is to avoid losing three trump tricks. This may be impossible if the opponents' cards are distributed unfavorably, but naturally South should play on the basis that it is possible for him to make the contract.

Accordingly, after winning the diamond and entering dummy with a club, he leads the four of spades on which East plays the nine. The question now is whether it is better to play the queen or the ten (that is, without seeing the East-West cards).

The queen is demonstrably the right play, since it cannot possibly cost the contract but might conceivably result in saving it The reasoning is logical enough. Declarer considers every possible way the spades can be divided and brushes aside those combinations where his choice between the queen or ten makes no difference.

Thus, if East's holding is the A-K-J-9, A-J-9, K-J-9, A-9, K-9, J-9, or 9, South's play is immaterial. He makes the contract if the spades are divided 2-2 and goes down in all the other cases shown, regardless of what he does.

The only case where his play makes a difference is where East has the A-K-9, and to cover this one possibility, South should play the queen.

Note that if dummy has a spade more and declarer a spade less, the ten would be the right play. This is because West is twice as likely to hold the singleton king or ace as the singleton jack.

Abby: a ball in a bakery

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your answers to other people's problems are so wise, maybe you can help me with mine, though I believe it's hopeless.

My husband and I have been married for 27 years, raised three children, and now we have grandchildren. He traveled for a living and made little effort to hide his cheating. He calmly told me (when I caught him) that it meant "nothing."

I have offered him his freedom a dozen times, but he always refused it, saying he loved only me.

He has never wanted friends. Never knew a neighbor. I have raised the children alone, covering up for him, helping him in his office. We are financially well off, but what good is the money?

I am 5 feet tall and weigh 105 pounds and am told repeatedly that I look like a sister to my daughters. My husband has gained 50 pounds since our wedding and doesn't even think of dieting.

He keeps talking about how crazy he is about blonde hair. (My hair is as dark as yours, Abby. In fact people say we look alike.)

Please don't tell me I've been a doormat. I know that. What else have I been doing wrong?

HAVE BEEN MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: You may not have tried hard enough to improve your miserable lot. No man will give up his cake if he can have it, too. And for 27 years yours has been having a ball in a bakery.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Tis A Boy—A Girl—A Skinhead?

London (AP) — "People have had it with long hair." This was the word Tuesday from Vidal Sassoon's, one of London's most popular hairdressing chains with branches in the United States and Canada.

An official said the trend now is "skinhead" for women. This is the nickname for London youths who hate hippies and get their heads shorn close-in crew-cut style.

Sassoon's said it is giving 80 to 100 "skinhead" cuts a week.

"Girls often want to identify with their boyfriends, and many boys are going for shorter hair," said Sassoon's managing director, Gerard Austen.

Caroline Baker, a 25-year-old fashion editor, claims she decided to go skinhead after watching short-haired Neil A. Armstrong on the Apollo 11 moon voyage.

"I got a girl friend to hack my hair off the same night" she said.

A few girls admit their boyfriends have objected.

Bewildered hairdressers cannot agree on the reason for the craze. Many trace it to the skinhead gans, other claim it is a female response to longer skirts.

Wedding Plans, Parties

Revealing plans this morning for an October wedding is Miss Shari Bulin of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bulin of Fairbury, who has chosen Friday, Oct. 10, for her marriage to James Angell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Angell of Diller.

The 7 o'clock, candlelight ceremony will be solemnized at the Helzey United Methodist Church near Fairbury.

Attending Miss Bulin as matron of honor will be her fiance's sister, Mrs. Roger Bennett of Lincoln, and the bridesmaids will be the bride-elect's sister, Miss Susan Bulin, and Miss Bonnie Buchmeier, both of Fairbury.

Roger Bennett will serve his brother-in-law as best man, and the groomsmen will be Francis Lottman of Odell, and Don Tyser of Lincoln.

Honored at several prenuptial parties in recent weeks has been Miss Jane Carol Kehn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete J. Kehn, who will become the bride of Gary Beetem of Beatrice, on Saturday, Oct. 4.

Last Sunday afternoon, a miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Kehn at a party held at the Beatrice home of Mrs. Linda McConnaughy. The guests included friends of Mr. Beetem's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Beetem of Beatrice.

Entertaining at a prenuptial courtesy to honor their niece on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 14, were Mrs. Fred Kehn, Mrs. Bill Herstein and Mrs. Henry Bell, who were hostesses to family members and friends at the home of Mrs. Kehn.

Also honoring the bride-elect recently were office co-workers who entertained for her at an informal party and shower on Friday evening, Sept. 12.

The wedding of Miss Kehn and Mr. Beetem will take place at a 7 o'clock evening service, to be solemnized at Faith United Church of Christ.

Mr. Beeting has studied at the Browne and Mackey Business College in Salina, Kan. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Epsilon business fraternity.

A popular autumn bride-elect who has been honored at numerous courtesies preceding her Oct. 4, marriage to Bill Burkey, is Miss Darlene Hoffart, whose wedding will take place Saturday evening at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Among the recent parties for the bride-elect was the personal shower given Wednesday evening, Sept. 17 when Miss Dorothy Reiling was hostess to a group of guests at her home. Co-hostesses with Miss Reiling were Mrs. William Mericle and Miss Angie Rosenthal.

A one-gift shower was presented to Miss Hoffart on Wednesday evening, Sept. 10, at the home of Mrs. John Brechner. The guests for the informal party were members of the American Legion Auxiliary unit 368.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert E. Hoffart, the bride-to-be is a graduate of the Lincoln School of Dental Assistants.

The demonstration series, which began Monday and Tuesday, will continue on Wednesday at 1:15 o'clock and at 7 o'clock at the State Farm Company meeting room, 5901 O, and again at 1:15 o'clock, Thursday, at the Hill Hatchery.

Denial Of Power Service Area Shift Appealed

By Associated Press

Attorneys for Consumers and Loup River Public Power Districts told the Nebraska Supreme Court Tuesday the transfer of a strip of land to Consumers' service area would "eliminate continuing competition and conflict" between the two districts and Cornhusker Public Power District.

The statement came as the district, in a brief of appellees and cross-appellants filed with the high court, asked that an order by the Nebraska Power Review Board that denied the transfer of the complete land corridor to the Consumers service area be reversed.

Original Action

Cornhusker brought the original Supreme Court action.

The case emerged from an administrative proceeding before the Power Review Board instituted by Cornhusker.

Cornhusker alleged that Loup and Consumers were violating the service area agreement by illegally serving two industrial customers located within Cornhusker's service area just east of Columbus.

Loup and Consumers sought dismissal of the Cornhusker complaints and subsequently asked that Consumers' service area be modified to give Consumers the corridor in Platte and Colfax Counties.

The corridor, 1.5 mile wide and 4.5 miles long connects the cities of Columbus and Richland.

Dismissed Complaints

The board, following a hearing, dismissed the Cornhusker complaints giving Loup the right to continue serving the two industrial customers and transferring from the Cornhusker service area the 400-acre Loup industrial site, upon which both industrial customers in questions were located.

In concluding the appellees brief, the attorneys said evidence showed the Cornhusker complaints were properly dismissed by the board and Loup "was correctly authorized" to continue serving the two industrial customers.

Further, in the brief on cross-appeal, the attorneys alleged "the board erred in failing to modify the service area agreement by transferring all of the land in the corridor strip to the Consumers service area.

The brief said there were three industrial plants located outside the 400-acre industrial tract that are located in the eastern corridor area.

"It is really inconceivable that Cornhusker, which serves only 1.5% of the total kilowatt hour sales of electricity, should have any portion of the corridor strip within its service area," the brief said.

Besides eliminating conflict between Cornhuskers and Consumers-Loup the brief said transfer of the corridor would eliminate duplication of facilities and resources and "permit the unified and coordinated electrical development of the corridor on an economical and efficient basis."

Director Named Of Services For Visually Impaired

Dean S. McDermott, who has been associated with the Omaha Office for the Visually Impaired, was named Tuesday to be director for the Office of Services for the Visually Impaired in the Department of Public Institutions.

McDermott will assume the new duties Wednesday, Oct. 1, replacing Marion Clark, who left the position Sept. 1 to join the State Department of Education.

McDermott holds a degree from the University of Omaha and has done graduate work at the University of Southern Illinois. He is a retired military man, having been a captain in the U.S. Army Reserves.

Sprained Ankle Serious Injury

Santa Barbara, Calif. (UPI) — People call almost any ankle injury "a sprained ankle" but the term is too loose, says Dr. Robert W. Olson, a radiologist here. A truly sprained ankle has one or more of the ligaments partially or completely torn, and its nothing to pooh-pooh.

Quick diagnosis by arthrography, in which x-ray visualization of the joint is attained by the injection of contrast material, is necessary, Olson indicates, to get repair going and avoid confusing diagnosis later when the tears may be sealed by clots and adhesions.

Visits To Airports Given Top Priority

By Associated Press

Paul Burket, who became Nebraska's Aeronautics director last month, says he is giving high priority at the outset to visiting the various airports around the state, and already has dropped in on 10 of them.

"I want to meet the fixed base operators and all personnel at the airports," he said in an interview. "I get a general idea of the airport conditions and report to airport authorities at the locations."

Burket, 45, was appointed by Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann Aug. 18 to succeed Howard Vest, who resigned.

A native of Pennsylvania, Burket enlisted in the Army Air Corps in 1942 and retired from the Air Force in 1965 with the rank of lieutenant colonel. Of his 22 years in military service, half were spent at the former Lincoln Air Force Base, where he flew B47 aircraft and served in administrative capacities.

He received a bachelor of general education degree from the University of Nebraska at Omaha in January of 1966, and was associated with the Lincoln Airport Authority at the time he was named to the state position.

As aeronautics director, Burket said he wants to increase public interest in aviation.

He said also: "I think better lines of communication should be channeled from the Aeronautics Department to air carriers, airports and airport authorities.

"And we need to improve the state owned and operated navigational aid stations with better equipment."

AP Broadcasters Want Crime Case Guidelines

Grand Island (AP) — The Nebraska Associated Press Broadcasters Association Tuesday urged representatives of the legal profession and news media to develop as soon as possible guidelines for the dissemination of information on criminal cases.

In a resolution adopted unanimously at the association's annual fall meeting, the AP broadcasters said it "fears that the public's right to know could be endangered if free press — fair trial guidelines are not developed on a volunteer basis."

The resolution states that "the guarantees of free press and fair trial as embodied in the First and Sixth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution are complementary rather than contentious."

The broadcasters discussed at length the handling of news dissemination by county attorneys on a number of criminal cases in Nebraska. They said there have been what they feel are unfair restrictions on access to details of crimes because county attorneys have overreacted to the free press-fair trial issue.

Bob Taylor of Lincoln, news director of KOLN KGIN-TV, said a committee of representatives of the legal profession and broadcast and print journalism is attempting to develope guidelines on what county attorneys can disclose on pending criminal cases.

But Taylor said the committee has not met in five months because of disagreement on several major points.

Taylor said that despite stand-still he believes the committee may be able to develop guidelines on news dissemination acceptable to judges, prosecutors and defense lawyers, as well as newsmen.

Francis Elected By Broadcasters

Grand Island (UPI) — Hollis Francis, of radio WJAG in Norfolk, Tuesday was named president of the Nebraska Broadcasters Association at the group's annual meeting here.

Amos Eastridge of KMTV in Omaha was elected vice-president. Treasurer is Roger Larson of radio KFOR in Lincoln.

Elected to two-year terms on the board were Ray Lockhart of radio KOGA in Ogallala, Frank Scott of radio KBON in Omaha, Bob Clark of radio KNCY in Nebraska City and Glen Pfenning of radio KAWL in York.

Demo Chief Says Tiemann Ignored Trade School Need

Democratic National Committeeman J. J. Exon charged that the Tiemann administration has abandoned the need for more vocational education by "ignoring the pressing need for a trade school in Omaha."

Exon spoke to a meeting of Democrats in Seward.

"At a time when industrial potential is hamstrung for want of skilled workers," he said, "the Tiemann administration has spent millions upon millions for everything, but not a cent for additional vocational education facilities."

Exon also warned that Nebraska's smaller communities "must be alerted to the peril they face in the monopolistic corporation from the National Farm Stores."

They have announced plans to locate supermarket farm-oriented stores in the Beatrice, York, Norfolk and Columbus areas, Exon noted.

"If they are allowed to pursue their goals," he said, "we will see an erosion of existing tax bases in communities they intend to affect."

Photographer Sees Mistake

Tokyo (AP)—"That picture is upside down," said Lord Snowdon, husband of Britain's Princess Margaret. His Japanese guide asked, "Why do you say that?" And Snowdon replied, "It's my photograph."

Then they found another of his pictures at a photo exhibition was upside down. Snowdon, a professional photographer, made both from reflections.

Treasury Chief Warns 4 Nations Not To Hobble Economy Of World

Washington (AP) — Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy put four countries on notice Tuesday that the United States expects them to help the world's economy recover its health, not hinder it with restrictions and controls.

Only a few countries have sizable trade surpluses, he said, warning that "it is vitally important" that major nations not lag in their recovery from serious balance of payments problem.

Although he did not name them, a Treasury Department spokesman said he was referring to Germany, Italy, Switzerland and, in a slightly different way, Japan.

Kennedy delivered the American view on the second day of the joint meeting of the International Monetary Fund and World Bank.

'Out Of Place'

"Import controls, systematic tying of aid, failure to share fully in the burden of defense, preferences for domestic production, export incentives, and inhibitions on capital exports are all out of place for countries with current account surpluses ranging as high as two or three per cent," Kennedy said.

U.S. government officials have been disturbed by devices such as border taxes imposed by European countries to favor their own products over imports. They also disapprove of Japan's many restrictions on imports although the Commerce Department is now trying to limit the flow of Japanese textiles into the United States.

Germany, Italy and Switzerland have consistently exported considerably more than they import.

"Certainly, solutions must be found other than internal inflation since the prescription appropriate for one country may not be suitable for another," Kennedy said.

'Much Could Be Done'

"But it is equally clear that, in each case, much could be done to spread and diffuse existing surpluses in ways that support both the broad objectives of freer trade and internal stability."

Reporting on the U.S. government's effort to control inflation, Kennedy said he sees "only scattered and not wholly conclusive signs that price relief may be on the way.

"In these circumstances, it is not time to shift gears" and reduce controls, he said.

Kennedy said the United States does not believe more flexible currency exchange rates would be a cure-all for international problems, but he promised to participate in the fund's continuing study.

He pledged his country's full support to the new system of "paper gold," which probably will be voted into effect Friday. It will involve distributing $9.5 billion in man-made international money over the next three years.

Restrictions Are Imposed On Codeine

●The New York Times

Miami Beach, Fla. — The finding that hundreds of thousands of Americans are seriously misusing codeine-based cough syrups and paregoric has caused the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs to propose new restrictions on their sale.

The announcement of the new federal controls was made Tuesday by Bureau Director John E. Ingersoll in a speech to the 76th annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Ingersoll said the survey had found that many deaths were associated with these "materials" and that the controls imposed by most states were inadequate.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. If is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Herron's Been Waiting

This is the week that Mack Herron's been waiting for. Not that the Kansas State star was overlooking Baylor and Arizona (he glanced at them occasionally as he whizzed by them), but Saturday's battle with Penn State is one that's been on Mack The Truck's mind for some time, like since a year ago.

'There are some teams in the Big Eight that we want to beat," he says, "But those are conference games and you just naturally get up mentally for them.

"But this Penn State team is one we want after what happened last year back there. That game got awfully rough."

What happened back here last year was that Kansas State took a 9-7 halftime lead before losing 25-9 to the then fourth-ranked Nittany Lions. And they got that 9-7 lead when Herron took a pass from Lynn Dickey and went 54 yards for a touchdown.

"I remember I got open just behind their line where their all-American linebacker was supposed to be," Herron recalls. "And when I caught the ball, he couldn't get back into position in time to catch me.

"He said something to me. I don't remember the exact words, but I remember it wasn't very nice. There were a lot of things said on the field that day and before the game was over, both teams were more intent on breaking somebody's head open than on scoring points."

But as much as he wanted another shot at Penn State this week in Manhattan, Herron thought seriously about passing up his final year at K-State.

Almost Stayed Home

"I've got a lot of little brothers at home and where we live in Chicago isn't a very good place for children to grow up," he explains. "And my mother has a bad heart so I thought about staying home to help her with my brothers.

"If I could have helped out more by staying at home, I would have, but we worked things out and I came back. But my first responsibility is to my family."

Had he passed up his final year at K-State, he might also have been passing up a dream he's had since he was a small boy.

"I've always wanted to play pro football and I hope I get a chance," he says.

His showings in a purple K-State jersey could bring more response from pro scouts than the interest college coaches showed in him as a high school player because of his size.

Has To Look Up

Herron, who weighs 175, claims he stands 5-7, but that's debatable since he has to look up to talk to a 5-7 sports writer. But regardless of whether he's 5-5 or 5-7, he doesn't worry about it.

"I can jump and grab a basketball rim," he claims. "And I think a lot of tacklers miss me because of my size.

"I think a lot of them just don't see me when they come charging into the backfield and I can sneak under them. Not many of them get as low to the ground as I am."

People will always have to look down to see Mack, but no one anymore looks down on his ability as a football player.

---GOPHER PUNT RETURNS TOUGH---

Improved Kicking Big Need For Cornhuskers

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

An improved kicking game, both in the kicking phase and the returning department, is one of the goals of Nebraska head coach Bob Devaney this week as the Huskers prepare for their Saturday date at Minnesota.

"We don't seem to have a great punter," Devaney said. "And we haven't gotten much out of our punt returning because our opponents have been kicking the ball so high and at times we've made some bad decisions on whether to return or not."

Field goal kicking also has been disappointing in the first two games. "But we've only missed one that was close," he added. "The others have been attempted from far out. Then the only one we've made was nullified by a penalty."

This phase of football is receiving plenty of attention this week. "We've always worked hard on it," Devaney pointed out. "But we've got to work harder because it's got to improve."

One of the reasons it's got to improve is that Minnesota "has one of the best punt return teams I've ever seen," Devaney said. "They don't have a Mack Herron like Kansas State does, but they work a criss-cross real well.

"They've got two guys who are good returners and they cross and often hand off to the other guy. Most teams have trouble finding one guy who can handle punts.

"Minnesota's punt returning is tough because they have good deception and they set up a wall real well."

The Husker coach was pleased by the effort his team put forth Tuesday despite the 90-degree heat.

"They gave us good effort and they hustled well," Devaney said. "We cut practice short by about 15 minutes compared to what we normally work on Tuesdays."

Defensive tackle Dave Walline, a leader in the blanking of Texas A & M last weekend, and linebacker Jerry Murtaugh, the Huskers' leading tackler, worked only in sweat suits Tuesday, but Devaney said he expected both of them to be in pads today.

Murtaugh has a foot injury and Walline has a knee injury. "We've got to find out pretty soon whether we can use them Saturday," Devaney said.

Sophomore quarterback Jerry Tagge, who has been slowed all fall with an ankle injury, came up hobbling on it again Tuesday, but Devaney said he hoped it would be okay again by Saturday.

Split end Dale Didur, who missed the first two games because of a shoulder separation, returned to work Tuesday and will play against the Gophers.

Three Huskers were alternating their time at two positions Tuesday with Frank Patrick at both tight and split end, Guy Ingles at both flanker and split end and Bill Bomberger, who has seen little action thus far, working at both fullback and I-back. Devaney said he would make the trip to Minnesota.

Alumni Party Planned

University of Nebraska alumni in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area will play host to visiting Cornhuskers at a party to be held Friday night in the Hotel Leamington.

A large contingent of Nebraskans are expected to attend the party Friday night, the Nebraska-Minnesota football game Saturday and the Minnesota Viking-Green Bay Packer contest Sunday.

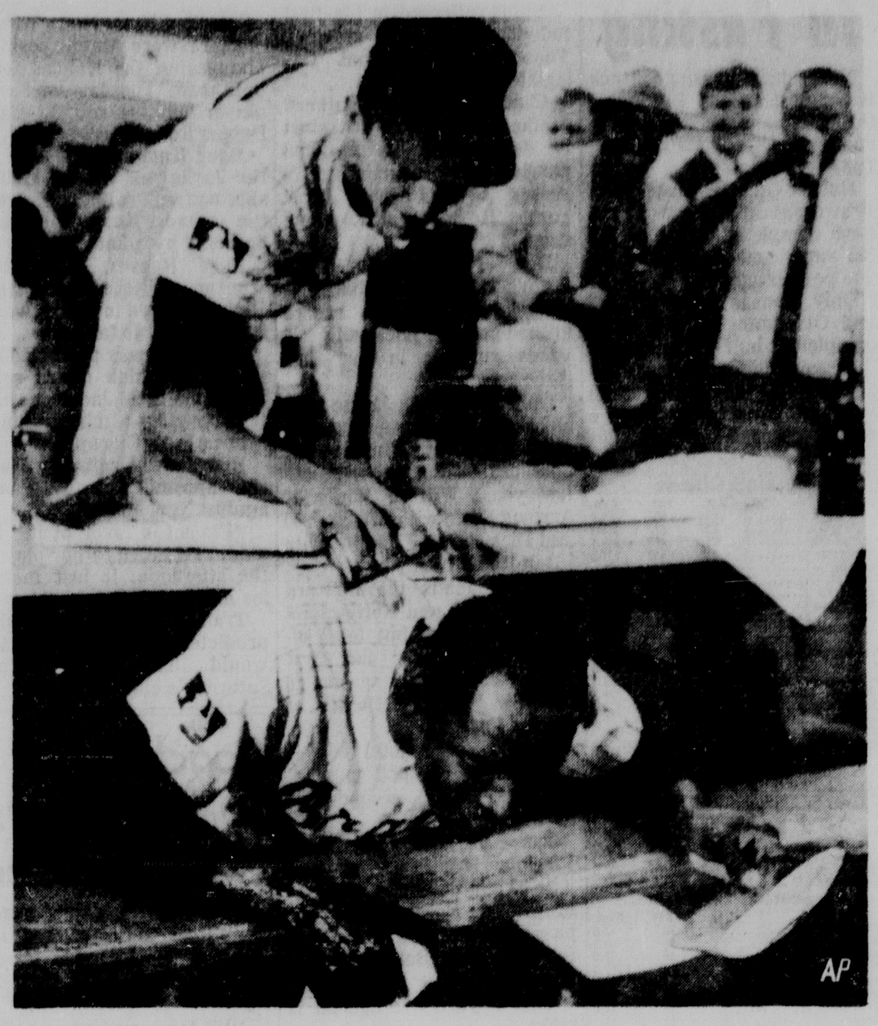

All University of Nebraska alumni in the Minnesota area, as well as the visiting Huskers, are invited to the social affair which will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Fittingly, the party will be held in the Hotel's Lincoln Room.

Huskers Favored

Nebraska has been established as a three-point favorite by the nation's oddsmakers for Saturday's game at Minnesota.

Comeback In Seventh Nudges Cincinnati, 3-2

. . . PLAY METS FOR LEAGUE TITLE

By Associated Press

The red-hot Atlanta Braves captured the National League West Division championship Tuesday night, cutting down Cincinnati 3-2 with a two-run seventh inning rally capped by Rico Carty's tie-breaking sacrifice fly.

The Braves' 10th consecutive victory gave them a three-game lead over second place San Francisco with two to play, mathematically ousting the Giants.

Carty's fly to right sent Felix Millan scampering home with the run that gave ace knuckleballer Phil Niekro his 23rd victory of the season — including six straight over the hard-hitting Reds.

Hoyt Wilhelm, the 46-year-old relief specialist obtained by Atlanta for the September stretch drive, stymied the Reds over the last two innings after Niekro, 23-13, left the game for a pinch hitter in the big seventh.

With the Reds leading 2-1, Mike Lum opened the home seventh with a single to center and Ralph Garr, batting for Niekro, walked.

Wayne Granger, the Reds' record-setting bullpen ace, replaced starter Gary Nolan and got Felix Millan to bunt into a force at third. But Tony Gonzalez singled to left, scoring Garr to tie the game 2-2, and after Hank Aaron walked to fill the bases, Carty delivered the winning sacrifice fly.

Wilhelm then nailed the victory by taming the last six Cincinnati batters with his knuckler, sending the Braves into the NL pennant playoffs against the East Division champion New York Mets. The Braves and Mets open a best-of-5 series at Atlanta Saturday.

Wilhelm will be ineligible to pitch in the series against the Mets because he joined the Braves from the California Angels after September 1.

A crowd of 43,974 saw the Braves take a 1-0 lead in the third on a single by Niekro, Millan's sacrifice bunt, an infield hit by Gonzales — who paced Atlanta's nine-hit attack with four straight singles—and Aaron's single to left.

The Reds raked Niekro for four hits in the fifth — Lee May's leadoff double and singles by Woody Woodward, Pete Rose and Tommy Helms — to score twice for a 2-1 edge.

Shortstop Bob Aspromonte tossed out Alex Johnson for the last out in the ninth, giving the Braves their 93rd victory—third highest season total in their history. The 1957 Milwaukee Braves won 95 games and the 1914 Boston Braves 94.

Al Downing fired a six-hitter and Therman Munson cracked three hits, leading the New York Yankees to an 8-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Ted Uhlaender's run-producing single with two out in the ninth inning gave the Minnesota Twins a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Tuesday.

The Detroit tigers jumped on 20-game winner Dave McNally for three runs in the seventh inning and defeated Baltimore 4-3, extending the American League East Division champions' losing streak to five games, their longest of the season.

Mike Epstein's three-run homer in the seventh inning and Del Unser's bases-loaded triple in the sixth gave the Washington Senators a 7-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox as Dick Bosman won his eighth consecutive game.

Ed Kirkpatrick slammed two home runs, a single and triple to drive in six runs and lead the Kansas City Royals to an 8-5 victory over California.

Johnny Briggs, who had smacked a homer and double earlier, doubled in the eighth inning and scored on Johnny Callison's single to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other baseball news, Harold "Lefty" Phillips, who took over the sagging fortunes of the California Angels in May and boosted their stock in the American League, was rewarded with a one-year contract to again manage the club in 1970.

Phillips, 50, a long-time scout and a coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers switching to the Angels this year, had a record of 60-60 as manager of the Angels going into the final series at Kansas City. Since the July 21-23 break, California won 35 and lost 30 compared to 36-27 for Minnesota, the division champion.

The Chicago Cubs set an all-time attendance record with a total of 1,654,876 fans and still have two Home games to go with the New York Mets Wednesday and Thursday.

Wolbach, Shickley Leading 'D', Eight-Man Prep Ratings

. . . ROSALIE GRIDDERS MOVE UP

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Wolbach in Class D and Shickley's eight-man powerhouse continue to lead their divisions in the Nebraska high school ratings.

Wolbach, which won the small school 11-man crown last fall, rolled to its third straight triumph of the new campaign last Friday with a 66-12 victory over Litchfield in a drive for a repeat title.

Shickley continued its winning ways with a 56-0 whitewashing of Dorchester.

Only two major changes took place from the initial rankings in Class D. Elmwood fell from the select group after dropping a contest with Class C Palmyra, while Sumner and Hildreth made a major shift after the latter won a 6-0 struggle between the two.

Sumner was forced to compete in the crucial contest between the two top ten clubs without the services of returning all-stater Dan Simmons.

The 5-10, 150-pound back broke an ankle in practice the preceeding Tuesday and is lost to the Mustangs for the season.

Sumner, third in the first ratings, clings to the No. 10 without the senior leader. spot without the senior leader. Hildreth moves up from eighth to No. 4.

Beemer stays second behind Wolbach, while Dix advances a notch.

A new face, seldom in the ratings in recent years, is No. 5 Rosalie. Coach Don Joern's outfit started with a pair of shutouts, one over Class C Winnebago, and last week knocked off Newcastle, Class D champions of 1967, by a 21-14 count.

Shickley heads 21 eight-man teams in the state who all still have perfect records.

The same teams which were in the first ratings a week ago still occupy the top ten spots, though a minor amount of shifting was involved.

Bradshaw is again the runnerup, with Sutherland, which appears to be the best in the west, moving up a notch to third.

Gresham trades places, going to fourth. Milligan makes the biggest jump, coming up to fifth from the No. 9 spot, following another easy win. Everyone else moves down one place to make room for the Roosters.

Comment—Only one new team in the top ten, as Elwood replaces Elmwood. Both have 2-1 records, but Elwood's loss came to a club which threatens the top group in Class B. Hildreth advances four notches and Sumner drops after a 6-0 clash between the two. Sumner hangs on while it tries to regroup after playing without all-stater Dan Simmons, lost for the season with a broken ankle.

Top two spots the same, while Sutherland, appearing to be the best in the west advances one notch. Milligan jumps up to No. 5 after an impressive win.

Just One Attacker At Large

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — All but one of the persons charged in a gang attack upon the Fairbury, Neb., Junior College football team last Friday night are now in custody, Undersheriff Harvey Bahner said Tuesday.

Eleven adults and three juveniles were charged in the incident.

Bahner said the one remaining person not in custody is a girl who was reported to be in Colorado.

Gene Olander, Shawnee County Attorney, said the adults in custody were to be arraigned Tuesday in Shawnee County Magistrate Court.

The arraignment process involves only setting the cases for preliminary hearing and setting bond, Olander said.

He said two of the juveniles, both aged 17, and one adult have been charged with felonies.

The juveniles have been ordered held until there is a Juvenile Court hearing on the certification of the two to stand trial as adults.

Four persons in the Fairbury group, including an assistant coach and a cheerleader, were injured in the incident which took place outside a roadside cafe where the team had stopped to eat after defeating Haskell Institute 31-0 in a game at Lawrence, Kan.

Three of the injured were treated and released.

The fourth, Sid Mosiman, 19, a tackle, was reported in satisfactory condition in a Topeka hospital. He was recovering from stab wounds in the chest, abdomen and scalp.

MU's Moore Gets Chance

. . . 185 YARDS VS. ILLINI

Kansas City (AP) — Joe Moore, one of the men in Missouri's backfield who could lose his job when James Harrison is healthy again, is making the most of his opportunity.

Harrison was expected to be the Tigers tailback or fullback before fall practice began. He pulled a hamstring muscle on the first day of drills, and hasn't been able to play.

Moore has been as fit as a fiddle, however, and Air Force and Illinois will attest to that.

The 6-foot-1, 195-pound junior from St. Louis, sliced through the Illini for 185 yards on 23 carries last Saturday, leading Missouri to a 37-6 victory at Busch Stadium in St. Louis.

For his work, Moore was selected the Big Eight Conference's Back of The Week, edging Oklahoma sophomore quarterback Jack Mildren.

Mildren piled up 206 yards total offense and scored two touchdowns as the Sooners romped past Pittsburgh, 37-8. He took up the slack when an ailing Steve Owens couldn't shoulder his usual workhorse load.

Moore's yardage total was within 33 yards of the Missouri one-game rushing record. Harry Ice gained 218 yards against Kansas in 1941.

He now has gained 315 yards in Missouri's first two games.

Moore got the Tigers off to a fast start against Illinois, bolting 58 yards to a touchdown on Missouri's fifth play Saturday.

Although coach Dan Devine didn't play Moore the final 18 minutes of the game, he totaled more rushing yardage than the entire Illinois backfield.

"Joe has improved tremendously," Devine said of his tailback. "He still has a good deal of trouble fielding the ball, but he works on it and I think he'll improve on it. He works real hard, and he's a fine young man."

Devine said Harrison likely will go to fullback when he gets well, possibly in two weeks, but could go back to tailback, too.

Mildren drew praise from Pittsburgh coach Carl DePasqua who called him "the most exceptional sophomore quarterback I've ever seen." Mildren rushed 15 times for 135 yards and completed 4 of 11 passes for 71 yards. He uncorked one 78-yard touchdown run.

Other backs nominated for the honor were Kansas State's Mike Montgomery, Oklahoma State's Bob Cutburth, Kansas' John Mears, Iowa State's Tony Washington, Nebraska's Al Larson and Colorado's Pat Murphy.

---PLAYER OF WEEK---

East's Blue Tops Prep Grid Feats

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The professional football teams are famous for their "two minute offenses". The phrase comes from the hurry-up tactics the pros employ in trying for a score in the final moments before halftime or the end of a game.

Lincoln East High quarterback Barry Blue came up with one of his own at Seacrest Field last Friday night, turning apparent defeat into a 15-14 victory over crosstown rival Northeast.

The effort, which included a touchdown and a two-point conversion at the end of a 74-yard drive in the last 1:59 of the battle, earns Blue recognition as the Player of the Week.

The Spartans' senior signal caller connected on four of five "must" passes during the short span for the touchdown, then made the decision for the crucial call on the two-point play.

Blue called an option play which he ran to perfection, faking a keeper to draw in the Rocket defense. Then, at the last moment, he flipped a lateral to halfback Kent Reckewey, who scampered into the end zone untouched for the margin of victory.

The entire comeback march came through the air. Blue started with a 10-yard toss to Kent Mahoney and followed that with two consecutive aerials to Bill Shepard. The first was a 41-yard bomb. A successful nine-yard flip got the ball to the Northeast 14.

Following his only incompletion of the string — Blue ended the contest with eight for 11 through the air — he hit Reckewey in the corner for the TD to set up the conversion decider with just 39 seconds remaining.

Others who had outstanding games over the past weekend to deserve special mention include.

John Beck, Wilber — Ran for four touchdowns as Class C Wilber pasted Class B Tri-County, 40-0. Beck gained 114 yards on 14 carries.

Frank Jones, Nelson — Cited for his outstanding defensive play. From his linebacker spot, Frank had 13 tackles, three of them behind Blue Hill's line of scrimmage, a fumble recovery and a pass interception, as Nelson claimed a 20-6 victory.

Steve Zikmund, Central City — The workhorse of the Central City attack, Steve carried the ball 37 times in a 26-6 win over St. Paul. Zikmund gained 258 yards while scoring three touchdonws.

Dave Forbes, York — Dave came up with the big plays as York handed Fairbury its first defeat, 20-0. Forbes intercepted a pass and ran it back 35 yards for one tally, then scampered 79 yards for another TD.

Rich Lutton, Ashland — Gained 144 yards on just nine carries, and added another 42 yards on pass receptions. Rich also had two intercepted passes and led the Ahland defense as they recorded a 45-16 win over Gretna. He scored two touchdowns, giving him six TD's for the young season.

Milt McLain, Bradshaw — Scored 20 points as Bradshaw topped a stubborn Giltner club, 35-12. McLain scored both of Bradshaw's second quarter touchdowns to put the game out of reach, providing a 20-0 halftime bulge.

'Other End' Does Outstanding Work

. . . CHARGERS' GARRISON CITED

By Associated Press

Gary Garrison usually works in the shadow of Lance Alworth. He is the other wide receiver for the San Diego Chargers and probably one of the most underrated players in the American Football League.

Garrison grabbed 10 of John Hadl's passes for 188 yards and two touchdowns Sunday to earn recognition by The Associated Press as the Offensive Player of the Week in the AFL.

It was a personal high for Garrison who caught six aerials on Randy Beverly, a Jet corner back, topping his career yardage high of 163 against the same New York Jets in 1968.

Not bad for a fellow who used to be a press box runner, handing out game statistics in the San Diego press box, while going to college at San Diego State.

"I really didn't learn how to get off the mark until last year," Garrison told an interviewer. "I used to take off with my head down. The way the defensive backs challenge you now you'll get your head knocked off if you aren't watching. It's perfectly legal as long as the ball isn't in the air. I have had to develop double moves to get away from the defensive man."

Hadl also had himself quite a day against the Jets. After taking a shot of cortisone in his elbow, he hit for 19 of 31, for 281 yards and three touchdowns in a 34-27 victory.

Sam Wyche, Cincinnati's backup quarterback, took over after Greg Cook was injured and led the Bengals to a 24-19 upset of Kansas City. Wyche threw an 80-yard pass to Bob Trumpey.

O. J. Simpson, the Southern Cal flash, enjoyed his first big day as a pro, running for 110 yards and catching five passes for 45 yards in Buffalo's 41-28 victory over Denver.

Rookie Roy Gerela booted five field goals for Houston's 22-10 victory over Miami and Daryle Lamonica's four touchdown passes enabled Oakland to come from behind against Boston, 38-23.

Restrictions Placed On State Refuges

By United Press International

Restrictions will be placed on use of state waterfowl refuges when the goose hunting season opens Wednesday, the State Game Commission said Tuesday.

Twin Lakes near Pleasant Dale will be closed to the public until Dec. 25 as will most of Burchard Lake in Pawnee County.

Fishing and boating will be prohibited at Lake Babcock near Columbus for the same period. The upper portion of the Enders Reservoir in southwestern Nebraska will be closed until Jan. 4.

The areas are being closed so that ducks and geese will not be disturbed while resting on flights south.

All state recreation areas, however, will be opened to public hunting starting Wednesday.

With the opening of the goose season on Wednesday, two federal refuges will be closed to angling activities.

Crescent Lake and North Platte national wildlife refuges, both prime areas for the visiting honkers, will be closed to fishing beginning October 1. These areas will again be available to anglers in January.

New York (AP) — Lew Alcindor's regular season debut in the National Basketball Association will be shown live on the ABC television network Saturday, Oct. 18, when the towering rookie's Milwaukee Bucks play Detroit at Milwaukee at 1 p.m., CDT, the network announced Tuesday.

Hixson Paces Aerial Game

New York (AP) — That the 1969 college football season will be one of high-geared offenses is reflected in the first individual statistics released Tuesday by National Collegiate Sports Services.

Chuck Hixson of Southern Methodist is off to a fast start in defense of his national passing title, completing 76 passes in his first three games. He had 84 at the same stage in 1968.

Don Nottingham, Kent State's 210-pound fullback, is close to matching a record ground-gaining pace with 544 yards rushing in his first three games.

Only three men in the past have got off to a stronger start — O. J. Simpson of Southern California, with 588 last year; Wilford White of Arizona State with 572 in 1950 and Dick Bass of Pacific with 562 in 1958.

Hixson leads the forward passing table and Nottingham the rushing list but total offense honors for the first three weeks of the season go to Gary "Spider" Baxter of the Air Force.

Baxter has a total of 749 yards in passing and rushing, 15 more than second-pace Hixson.

Jim Braxton of West Virginia leads the scoring with 52 points. Ernie Jennings of the Air Force is the top pass receiver with 27 catches for 263 yards. Bob Jacobs of Wyoming tops the punters with a 48-yard average on 12 kicks.

Stock Prices Slip In Sluggish Trade

New York (AP) — Cautious investors stayed on the sidelines Tuesday, pushing the stock market to its worst trading session in three weeks and to its fifth straight loss in as many days.

The session was marked by "no selling pressure and no buying power," observed one analyst.

The Dow Jones industrial average once again slid downward, closing at 813.09, off 4.95, its worst level since Sept. 8.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks finished off 0.16 at 51.69.

Despite an added half hour, volume reached only 9.18 million shares, a level last seen Sept. 8 when trading crawled to a turnover of 8.32 million shares. Tuesday's volume was compared with 10.16 million shares that changed hands Monday.

"There's money on the sidelines, but it's waiting for economic as well as other developments to work their way out," commented one analyst.

Of 1,564 issues traded, 780 declined, 504 advanced, and 280 remained unchanged.

The Associated Press 60-stock average finished off 1.8 at 285.1, with industrials off 2.4, rails off 1.3, and utilities off .7.

Five new highs were posted for the year, while 139 stocks hit new lows for 1969. The new highs were Dunn & Bradstreet Inc., Max Factor & Co. A, International Flavors & Fragrances, Kendall Co., and National Chemsearch Corp.

Steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, metals, rails and airlines were mostly off while electronics, utilities, chemicals and oils were mixed.

Among the motors, General Motors was off 1¼ at 73¾, following a report Tuesday that auto output and sales were expected to trail last year in the coming months.

Grace Co., with the largest block of the session — 140,500 shares — topped the New York Stock Exchange's list of 20 most active issues at 27⅝, off ⅜.

The second largest block involved Allied Stores with 77,400 shares, as the issue closed at 33⅛, off ⅝.

Closing active Big Board issues included: American Can 48¾, off 1; Eastman Kodak 73, up ¼; Armstrong Cork 36¼, off ⅝; and Warner Lambert 64, off ⅝.

Prices dipped in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange, as the Amex index slipped 2 cents to $26.52. Among 1,040 issues traded, declines exceeded advances 470 to 351.

Among the 20 most-active issues, 12 declined and 8 advanced. Aileen Inc., was the most-active on a total of 95,700 shares, closing at 40, off 1½.

Among major losers on the most-active list were Deltona 64⅛, off 2¾; Bow Valley 15⅞, off 1⅜; and Four Seasons Nursing 68, off 1.

Escapee Said Headed For Grand Island

Lincoln police were on the lookout Tuesday night for an escapee from a Pennsylvania prison who is wanted for rape and kidnap in Pennsylvania and the murder of a policeman in Maryland.

Stanley Barton Hoss Jr., 26, reportedly escaped prison in Pennsylvania Sept. 20. He was last seen holding as hostages a woman and her two-year old child.

Hoss, according to police, has a relative in Lincoln who "is sure he is headed for Grand Island."

Hoss is described as a white male, 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing 179 pounds. He has brown hair and green eyes and is tattooed on the left forearm and the chest. One tattoo reportedly says "Pat" and the other "Born to Lose."

He was last seen driving a 1969 Pontiac GTO convertible, white over light green, carrying Pennsylvania license plate 9-N3119.

Lincoln police said they were cooperating with the FBI, who are seeking Hoss on a kidnap charge. He is considered very dangerous.

Lincoln Couple Seriously Injured In 3-Car Crash

A Lincoln man and his wife were each listed in serious condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital Tuesday night following a three-car smashup at 45th and Vine.

In serious condition were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Matthew of 4840 Cleveland. Matthew was in the hospital's cardiac unit. His wife suffered cracked ribs when she was thrown out of the vehicle driven by her husband, officials said.

Police said the Matthew vehicle was northbound on 45th when it collided with a westbound car driven by Wendell Moore, 24, of 2000 T. The Moore vehicle then crossed the intersection and collided with a halted car driven by Clark Balfour, 60, of Nehawka.

No one in the Balfour car was injured, but 3-year-old George Farr of 2476 Vine, a passenger in the Moore auto was treated for severe facial lacerations and released, police said.

BRITAIN WON'T CRAWL

Britain still wants to join—not crawl into—the European Common Market. So said Prime Minister Harold Wilson in his speech Tuesday to the annual convention of the Labor Party in Brighton, England. Wilson insisted that Europe will suffer if Britain's entry into the Common Market is blocked.

Trains Won't Run If 7 Lines Struck

Washington (AP) — Executives of the nation's railroads voted Tuesday to halt service simultaneously across the country Saturday if shopcraft unions strike seven major lines.

The action, which would shut down virtually all of the nation's railroads, not just the seven threatened with a strike, was disclosed by John P. Hiltz Jr., chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference.

It was seen as an effort by the railroads to create an emergency situation under which President Nixon would be authorized to postpone the strike for a 60-day cooling-off period.

The unions maintain that the proposed strike against just seven lines would not create an emergency as defined in the National Railway Labor Act and therefore the President would not be authorized to impose the 60-day delay.

The decision to close down operations and lay off employes is conditioned on the unions' announced strike plans — should the strike be called off, the shutdown will be, too, Hiltz said.

"The unprecedented divide-and-conquer tactics of the four shopcraft unions leave the railroads no alternative but to take unprecedented action themselves," he said.

"Only by such action can railroads prevent the unions from bludgeoning unjustifiably high wage settlements out of one carrier at a time and, in the end, bringing the whole industry to its knees," Hilt said.

The disclosure came following a two-hour meeting which Labor Secretary George P. Shultz had with officials of six major lines in the continuing bid to head off the threatened strike without resorting to a presidential declaration of emergency.

Threats Alleged In Chicago; Jurors Ordered Locked Up

Chicago (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman Tuesday ordered the Chicago riot conspiracy trial locked up after it was disclosed two jurors received threatening notes.

The contents of the notes were not disclosed in court.

The judge ordered the sequestration on the motion of Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard G. Schultz and over the objection of the defense.

Although the contents of the letters were not revealed, copies of what were apparently the notes could be seen being passed around the prosecution table.

'Panthers Watching'

"We're watching you. The Black Panthers," the copies read.

One of the defendants, Bobby G. Seale, 33, is national chairman of the Black Panthers, a militant Negro organization. Seale said in a handwritten statement distributed at a lunchtime news conference that the Panthers had no part in writing the notes.

Hoffman said he would hold a hearing Wednesday on whether the two involved jurors should be disqualified.

The judge straightened up in his chair and directed a stinging challenge to a defense attorney who charged that the threatening letters were a "government trick."

"I'll let you try to prove that statement right now," Hoffman said to attorney William A. Kunstler.

"That is a very serious charge. We have one of the finest U.S. attorneys we have ever had in this district. You don't have one shred of evidence that what your defendants think is the case."

Kunstler said, "Of course, we can't prove it, but what we are proposing — because we don't think the Federal Bureau of Investigation is the appropriate agency in this matter — is a person of defense's and government's choosing be appointed to investigate the matter."

The judge said he had no authority to take such action. He said he would order the jury to be locked up. "That is all I can do at this point," he said.

Farm Leader Opposes Support Of Grape Boycott

Mead (AP) — Roland G. Nelson of Mead, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, says he opposes a movement in Nebraska to support a boycott by California grape pickers.

A committee has been formed called the Omaha Friends of the Grape Workers which is part of a nationwide effort to improve the bargaining position of the striking California workers.

Nelson said he does not oppose farm workers voluntarily joining unions. He said if the boycott is successful, the same tactic presumably might be used against Nebraska products.
